District Picks Congress Nominees Tomorrow

LIGHT VOTE OF 6,500 LOOMS FOR RICHLAND

Lagging Interest, Bad Weather Expected to Keep Many Away From Polls.

VOTE SUPPLIES SENT OUT

Precinct Workers Get Set for First Winter Election in County in Years.

Forecasting a vote of not more than 6,500 in Tuesday's special congressional primary in Richland county, the county election board today set the stage for the first winter election in the county in recent years.

Citing bad road conditions possible inclement weather, and lagging interest in the special 17th district primary, election board officials said they "wouldn't be surprised" if the total county vote is less than 6,500. In the primary two years ago, 13,185 votes were cast for congressional candidates in Richland county.

The board distributed ballots and election supplies to precinct workers today as the usual "force" of 546 voting booth employes prepared to go to work at 6:30 a. m. tomorrow when the polls open.

Ballots, printed in near record time, were delivered to the election board shortly before noon Saturday. About 24,000 ballots were printed to take care of any normal voting.

Two changes in voting places in Mansfield were announced by the election board. Voters in precinct I of the First ward will vote at the City building, while in precinct B of the Second ward, the voting booths will be at the Jones Funeral home, 681 Park avenue west, instead of at the E. W.

CHASE 'GHOST'

Japs Hunt Chinese Leader, Thought Dead 8 Years.

HONGKONG —(AP)— Japanese reported their "ghost" chase advancing today, with Chinese forces in inner Mongolia in flight from several lost strongholds.

Advices from the far northern front said the Chinese had been driven from Wuyuan and Linho. They said Japanese forces were pursuing the Chinese toward the border between inner Mongolia and Ninghsia province about 25 miles distant.

The "ghost" the Japanese are hunting is Gen. Ma Chan-Shan, Chinese leader who they reported killed eight years ago, but who has been a thorn in their side several times since.

Since the Japanese have reported his "death" to the emperor—and in Japanese belief anything told him becomes "irrevocable"—army leaders are attempting to destroy his forces.

ROAD BLOCKED

Earth Slide Ties Up Traffic in East Liverpool Area.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O.—(UP)— The East Liverpool-Wellsville road was blocked today by a slide of several tons of earth and rock after a three-inch snowfall.

Automobile, interurban and bus traffic was halted. Highway crews said several hours would be required to clear the road.

Returns On Primary? Phone N-J

Latest returns from the special 17th district congressional primary will be available at The News-Journal office Tuesday night as soon as results are available.

Results of the primary vote in Richland and the five other counties in the district will be tabulated by The News-Journal and special telephone operators will be on the job to handle calls.

Because there will be only two contests to be decided and the vote probably will be light, returns are expected to be completed early.

SENATE SURVEY INDICATES O.K. ON TRADE PACTS

Only Dozen Dems to Join 23 Republicans in Opposing Legislation, Belief.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A preliminary canvass by administration leaders was reported today to indicate senate approval of extending the reciprocal trade program.

Although the survey was incomplete, one of the senators who has been making it said there was every reason to believe that not more than a dozen Democrats would join the 23 Republicans on opposing the legislation.

Administration strategists said there apparently would be stronger sentiment in the senate for senate ratification of each trade pact, but expressed confidence that they had the votes to defeat such an amendment.

The canvass of senators' views has been proceeding quietly, under the direction of Senators Byrnes (D., S.C.) and Harrison (D., Miss.) while the house ways and means committee has been busy with hearings on the program.

House action is expected soon after these hearings end, and administration followers have been confident of victory in that chamber. The state department's authority to negotiate the trade pacts will expire June 12 unless renewed.

Congress marked time today to permit many of its members to attend the meeting of the Democratic national committee to make arrangements for the party convention.

Strength Test Due.

The senate will have a test tomorrow of the strength of its economy advocates when it debates the $1,138,675,000 appropriations bill for independent federal agencies. An increase of $38,500,000 over the house total was voted by the senate appropriations committee.

FALLS 10 FLOORS BUT ESCAPES

New Yorker Gets Only a Cut on Head After Drop Into Canopy.

NEW YORK —(UP)— Richard Jaeckel, 55, wealthy furrier leaves Bellevue hospital today with only a cut on his head to show for a 10 floor fall.

Jaeckel hurtled more than 100 feet to a canvas canopy, which he struck with such force that the impact bent the iron pipes supporting it. His only injury was the cut on the back of his head. The fall knocked him unconscious, but he was given first-aid treatment and taken to Bellevue for examination.

MORE WATER MAIN BREAKS PLAGUE CITY

Hospital's Supply Cut Off, Fire Alarm System Crippled as Workmen Cut Cable.

FINISH REPAIRS TODAY

Crafton Acts in Protests by Employes Over Position of Meter Repairman.

The dissension-gripped city waterworks today had a fresh onslaught of trouble heaped upon it by new breaks in the distribution system that partly paralyzed the city's fire alarm system.

As the result of two leaks in the system, a wide area in southwest Mansfield, including the General hospital was without a normal water supply while the mercantile and industrial district was almost completely without fire-alarm service.

Water lines in the southwest part of the city were shut off this morning as workmen sought to repair a major leak in a 10-inch feeder main on Glessner avenue near Green street. They expected to complete the job today.

Dr. O. A. Fonkalsrud, superintendent, said that hospital employes stored up extra supplies in containers for the shut-off period. A reserve supply is always on hand for the heating plant, he said.

Practically all fire alarm and police call boxes throughout the industrial district, including a circuit to the Westinghouse plant, were out of service. The main cable carrying the wires to the fire department in the city building were accidently slashed by waterworks repairmen at 1 a. m. today as they dug to locate a leak on South Mulberry street, near West First.

OFFICE LOOTED

Burglars Get $100, Tamper Doors of Other Offices.

Police today were searching for a burglar who broke into the Milady Beauty Salon on the 10th floor of the Farmers bank building last night and looted the office of $100.

The loss was discovered at 8:30 a. m. today by Miss Loretta Derr, 254 Park avenue west, co-owner of the establishment when she opened the office and found a cabinet broken open.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates attached little significance to the fact that several other office doors on the ninth and tenth floors had been tampered with, believing that the burglary was committed by someone familiar with the location of the money.

Officers also reported that the J. B. Miller night club, 90 Orange street, was entered last night and 18 quarts of whiskey valued at $27, carried away.

Radio Priest's Absence From Air Still Mystery

Church, Station Officials Unable to Explain Failure of Rev. Coughlin to Deliver Broadcast Sunday.

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT—The unexplained failure of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin to deliver his usual Sunday broadcast provided a mystery today for church and radio officials as well as for his followers.

Father Coughlin himself could not be reached for an explanation, and associates at his Shrine of the Little Flower in suburban Royal Oak said they did not know where he was.

Three cryptic announcements, interspersed with organ music, occupied the hour usually devoted to Father Coughlin's Sunday address over his own network of stations. Early listeners were advised to "telephone some friend to join his audience."

The announcer, stating he was unauthorized to give any explanation, first told hearers Father Coughlin would not speak. Later he returned to the microphone to say:

"Pay no heed to idle rumors which will be circulated this week. Be assured Father Coughlin knows what he is doing. * * * Probably events transpiring this week will enlighten you."

Expected to Return.

After another musical interlude, the announcer warned listeners not to be "alarmed." Urging them to "do your share to have his largest audience ready, to hear his message," he said "We confidently expect that Father Coughlin will return to the microphone next Sunday."

The management of the network's outlet station (WJR-Detroit) said Father Coughlin had been expected to talk, and expressed surprise that he did not do so. The priest delivers his speeches from his church.

Rev. Edward J. Hickey, chancellor of the archdiocese of Detroit, said he could offer no explanation.

Highway Director Beightler Called in Contempt.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Highway Director Robert S. Beightler was cited for contempt of court by Franklin County Common Pleas court Judge John R. King today for assertedly failing to restore Charles J. Marzluf to his position as a mimeograph operator in the highway department. Hearing was set for Feb. 9.

Marzluf asserted that after Judge King's order restored him to his job, he reported for work, but was given only part-time employment while another man, Donald Murphy, held his former position.

Marzluf further contended that, despite Murphy's employment, he received a notice saying that, "due to a lack of work and as a matter of economy," his position was abolished effective Feb. 1.

Mayor Greets Visitors At First Session; Banquet Tomorrow.

More than 400 plumbing contractors from all parts of the state were in Mansfield today for the 49th annual convention of the Ohio State Association of Master Plumbers which opened at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Called to order by Neil S. Larsen, Dayton, president of the association this afternoon, the contractors were greeted by Mayor William J. Locke.

Speakers at the opening session were C. L. Van Derau, president of the Chamber of Commerce and George W. Stephens, president and general manager of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Principal business scheduled for tomorrow includes the discussion of a research program of the plumbing industry for the improvement of plumbing fixtures and piping systems to provide better protection of public health, Larson said.

The convention will be highlighted tomorrow night with a banquet in the hotel ballroom at which Dr. Charles Copeland Smith of Chicago will speak on "Freedom—Our American Dynamic."

Municipal Judge Homer A. Ramey of Toledo will also speak. John Pierce, Mansfield, will be toastmaster.

At the concluding session Wednesday, State Health Director Dr. R. H. Markwith will speak after which officers will be named and the 1941 convention city, expected to be Springfield, will be selected.

The ladies' auxiliary of the association, with a membership of about 130, and the Ohio Society of Plumbing Inspectors are also convening here. The women will meet at the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow afternoon to name state officers.

CHILD BRIDE

Indiana Girl Insists She'll Stay Married to WPA Worker.

VINCENNES, Ind. — (AP) — A child bride from the southern Indiana hills, jailed after only two weeks of married life, allowed today she loved her husband and, law or no law, was bound she'd stay with him and make him a good wife.

Big, blond Dorothy Jean Foster-Harrell and black-haired James Harrell, 21year-old Bicknell WPA worker, married here Jan. 21, were both in jail. The county clerk said that they lied about her age in getting their license, and that she was only 13.

Last night Dorothy, who left the seventh grade and her father's farm to become a housewife, talked her troubles over with Sheriff Oscar Westfall—and put her foot down.

"I won't go back to Petersburg and live with my father," she said. "I won't go back to school. I just want to live with my husband."

BLOODY CLUE

Gory Bedding Spurs Probe of Body Found Near Dayton.

DAYTON —(UP)— A bundle of blood-stained bed clothing was one of the few clues Montgomery county authorities had today in their investigation of the death of an unidentified, middle-aged man whose body was found in a ditch near Miamisburg Saturday night.

A farmer, Homer Foster, found the blood-stained bedding under a thistle clump near Troy 30 miles from the place where the body was found. The name "A. O. Watkins" was printed on one of the blankets.

FINNS SCORE ON LAND; AIR WAR RENEWED

TALK NEW BALKAN PACT

Nazis Deny Selling Munitions to Reds for Use Against Finland.

(By International News Service)

Struggling valiantly against Soviet air and land attacks, Finland remained Europe's chief theatre of military action today as the conflict between Germany and the allies ebbed to relative, if temporary, tranquillity on all save the diplomatic front.

While Finland counted some 70 more persons killed as a result of new Russian air raids, authoritative sources in Helsinki estimated that at least 3,000 Red army soldiers were slain when the Finnish defenders hurled back four Soviet onslaughts against the rugged Mannerheim line.

The Soviet infantry attacks were supported by 200 planes but the Finns repulsed all assaults and forced the Reds to widen their operations to the east from the blood-stained Summa sector of the Karelian isthmus.

All along the Mannerheim line artillery pounded incessantly.

Both Berlin and Paris reported quiet at the front. "Nothing to report," said the French communique, while Berlin added: "The day was quiet."

3 Bodies Found.

London, meanwhile, surveyed the results of Saturday's German air raids up and down the British coast and counted four ships sunk—one British and three neutral—and established that three German bombers were shot down and a fourth was damaged. Germany had claimed that 14 ships were sunk.

In addition, the British admiralty announced bodies of three German airmen were washed ashore at Druridge Bay, Northumberland.

Sir Oswald Mosley, in a speech at Manchester, denied allegations voiced in the house of commons accusing his sister-in-law, Unity Freeman-Mitford, of having "assisted the enemy." But he charged that a man who interrupted the recent Manchester speech of First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill was "removed back stage and mercilessly beaten." This charge, in turn, was denied by a Conservative party agent.

Germany scoffed at British press reports that the reich has sent aviators, arms and munitions to aid Russia against Finland. Such stories are "unfounded nonsense," German authorities said.

The diplomatic pot was kept boiling, however, with conclusion of the Balkan entente conference

They're Going To School Now And You'll Want to See What They Do.

The five most interesting girls in the world are coming to Mansfield next Sunday in picturized form.

They will appear in a series of Sunday pictorial features in the Sunday News-Journal. This will be a strictly Sunday paper feature.

Need we tell you we're talking about Yvonne, Annette, Marie, Cecile and Emilie—the DIONNE QUINTUPLETS?

Ever since the day a news flash from Callender, Ontario, told the world that a modest country doctor had assisted at the birth of five tiny girl babies and that all five of them were living, people everywhere have eagerly awaited any bit of news about the parcel of cute babies.

Things have been happening at Dafoe hospital and at the nursery up there in Ontario where a steady stream of visitors every summer has made the town a tourist mecca.

The babies have been growing up.

It's school days now for Yvonne, Annette, Marie, Cecile and Emilie. And each little girl has become a separate individual with her own character, intelligence, and talents.

Almost everyone is familiar with the story of how no effort was spared to give the Quints a normal education of how their nursery was especially constructed so that they could be watched without being seen.

Observed thoroughly, their characteristics stacked up in babyhood as those of very attractive little youngsters. Now they are going to school.

The Quints are reaching the most interesting period of their lives.

They are beginning to think.

New Feature On Noted Youngsters To Be In Sunday Editions.

What are their thoughts? What are their reactions?

All this is revealed in a fascinating new series of picture articles which The News-Journal brings to you beginning next Sunday.

Because we feel that the development of the quintuplets from now on will be more engrossing than ever before we have obtained these exclusive pictures. Watch for the Dionne Quintuplets in The News-Journal Sunday.

Dutch Treat Club Solves Problems

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

At this time of the year especially, so many letters come to this column from young people who are desperately, despairing lonesome.

They are either shy (oh yes, there are still plenty of shy youngsters of both sexes to be found), or they feel they have not a proper place to entertain, and if they had, couldn't afford to do it. Some others have strict parents who have completely forgotten they were ever young themselves. And some just don't know how to do things or get a follow-up bid after a first date.

The solution of the problem for all those young people laboring under its disadvantages of shyness, scant pay envelopes, home responsibilities, is to get some enterprising girl who really knows how to do things to start a Dutch-Treat club.

After it's once in running order, it gathers momentum like the proverbial snowball going down hill. I am printing today a letter from a girl whose Dutch-Treat club has become very successful.

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"It seemed to me when I got a job in the big city that the gates of Heaven were opening. I was a small town girl and the only thing open to me in the way of amusement was to go to the drugstore and indulge in fattening sundaes and get terribly stupid books out of the lending library.

"I'd been to the state university, so I found the home town pretty much of a doghouse. When I got to town, it was worse, because at home I did know people, and in the big city, I didn't know a soul.

"I met plenty of young men, but few had money to take girls places. Some of them had obligations at home, others were studying. Some must have had the rainy-day in view.

"In the same office with me was a girl who had a good idea. She started up a Dutch-Treat club. She rounded up three couples, and the arrangement was that we were all to go out together, fifty-fifty. Our amusements were to be the movies, dances at good hotels, where for a cover charge and a snack you could dance the soles off your slippers. We went to games — football and baseball.

"Two of the girls shared an apartment, which boasted a kitchenette, and I had 'kitchen privileges' where I lived. One of the boys dug up 'kitchen privileges' at the house of a relative, so we started about even, as far as expense for gas and electricity went.

"For eats, except salads and pastry, we clung to the can-opener, and no one was allowed to have more than two courses. Marvels can be worked with canned spaghetti if put in a baking dish and topped with grated Parmesan cheese, browned. The same can be done with canned beans. Salmon loaf with green peas is good and substantial. One ambitious hostess stuffed an eggplant with shrimps in Creole style, and there wasn't enough of that left to feed a fly. We always had coffee, and either salad or dessert.

"As for romance, no. It was not to be thought about on our salaries, but we enjoyed going places, and it was a thousand times better than staying home and having no one to go about with. I'm strong for the Dutch-Treat club. And I hope you'll recommend it in your column to other young people taking root in big cities. If they'd like figures, I'll be glad to tell just what it cost.

"MARY ANNE."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"YES, YOU SHALL have your forty winks," Lillian gibed as she left the room.

Lillian called me exactly on the minute—and wasted no time in conversation, but set down on my bed a tray with a pot of steaming tea and a plate of toothsome little crackers.

"A slight collation," she said and departed so quickly that my "thank you" almost missed her retreating figure.

I went to my desk and took out the manuscript of my play. I studied carefully the scene in which Philip Veritzen and I had decided Olina was to appear, and within the hour had made the interpolations necessary to give her a few spoken words.

I made three copies, one for myself, one for Olina, and one for Mary, who, I had arranged, was the only person who would have to pick up Olina's cues. I had decided there was no use in confusing other members of the cast by changing their lines, and with the copies in my hands, I went first to Mary's room. I found her talking to Noel, who was still a bit "groggy" from Jack Leslie's blows.

"Here are your new lines, Mary," I said, "the ones where you 'cue' Olina. But you won't need to do anything except learn them today. I'll drill Olina in her lines so that she's letter perfect, then five or ten minutes in the morning, with the two of you working together before the regular rehearsal, ought to do the trick."

"I'm afraid I'm going to dissent from that opinion—most deferentially, of course," Mary said, with a gamin grin at me. "But we'll need more than ten minutes to get the feel of this together. Besides, no nervous cat will have anything on me tomorrow morning, and I don't want to have anything hanging over my head then except that rehearsal."

I saw her point instantly, and capitulated promptly.

"Of course, you shall do exactly as you please," I said, "and I'm sorry I didn't see your absolutely correct viewpoint myself at first. When can you rehearse with Olina?"

"In about half an hour," she returned. "I can learn the lines in five minutes, but I want the half hour in order to get the feel of the thing. But will she be ready then? Give her all the time she wants."

"I think she can be ready in that time," I said quickly. "Her lines have very few words, and I will work it out with her before we summon you."

"Poor Auntie Madge!" Mary commiserated. "Always getting the worst end of every deal."

But Noel's voice, interrupting our colloquy, held no note of sympathy. Instead, it was impatient, resentful.

"Aunt Madge!" he demanded. "Why does Olina have to have a role in this play? It just makes more work and nervous tension for Mary, and there's no possible reason for it except to gratify the vanity of a stage-struck girl who doesn't know what to do with her time."

Mary rushed over to him and hugged him ecstatically.

"You old darling!" she said. "You're awfully sweet to stand up for your wife that way. But it isn't necessary, pet. Listen and I'll tell you why I heartily approve this stunt."

BAN LINENS

BERLIN —(INS)— Shining white collars, dazzling shirt fronts and generally the white brilliance of linen that once was the pride of every hausfrau has been banned by a decree of the Reich Economic ministry. Housewives are being told that chloride and other bleaching powders used by the textile factories and laundries only weaken textiles.

THEATERS

OUT in Hollywood they still haven't recovered from the shock of having a star-career refused. . . . Carolyn Lee, the cunning youngster who was the hit of "Honeymoon In Bali," will not have a picture career despite tempting contracts offered. . . . Carolyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Copp of Martins Ferry, who spent considerable time in Mansfield until Mrs. Copp took Carolyn to Paramount studios on a contract. . . . Her father is a steel man and "well-to-do." After giving the youngster thousands of dollars worth of publicity and after she had made a tremendous hit, her father put his foot down and decreed no studio life for Carolyn. Thinks it spoils a child's life. . . . The studio wants her to play a big role in "Virginia." Officials say they'll never take another child from a well-to-do family.

Forsaken Again.

As usual Ralph Bellamy doesn't get the girl in his latest film "His Girl Friday." Always in love, always engaged he never emerges victorious in any of his romantic triangles. This time it's Rosalind Russell who forsakes him from the more devastating charm of Cary Grant. The newspaper story continues at the Ohio through Tuesday.

Stewart Progresses.

So unobtrusively that you've probably not noticed it, James Stewart has been turning in one excellent piece of work after another, and he does it again in "Destry Rides Again." Among his recent successes are "Shopworn Angel." "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington" and "You Can't Take It With You." His roles are varied so that he isn't "typed." In "Destry," which is at the Madison, he plays a soft-spoken sheriff. Marlene Dietrich and Irene Hervey are the romance in his life in the film.

Oriental Flavor.

Both films on the new bill at the Majestic, starting tomorrow, have Oriental backgrounds. There's "Lady of the Tropics," in which Hedy Lamarr plays a beautiful Polynesian in Indo-China, with Robert Taylor as her American lover; and the second film is "Four Feathers," the dramatic story of the English army in India. It is all in technicolor and depicts an act of extraordinary courage and bravery.

Does Impersonations.

A highlight of Mickey Rooney's work in "Babes In Arms" is his impersonations. Mickey takes off Clark Gable and Lionel Barrymore and even President Roosevelt. He's been doing impersonation to amuse his friends in Hollywood for some time, but this is the first time his work has been incorporated in a film. "Television Spy" is one of the many stories that are inspired by present day affairs. It is also shown on the Ritz bill.

Secret of Success.

One of the secrets of Joe Penner's success in pictures and the radio is that he always builds his comedy on something of current interest to the every day person. In "The Day the Bookies Wept," which is at the Park, he took the present craze to make easy money on the ponies. And so the majority of people have a common interest in it. Betty Grable and Richard Lane are in the cast. Also shown is "Main Street Lawyer."

Exercise Can Be Fun, Energizing

By MME. QUI VIVE

You cannot deny that the woman who is active, who loves outdoor life, who is highly energized is the one who finds zest in her job whatever it may be, has courage to face whatever comes in the way of disappointments and troubles. Her blood streams are on the move. Her muscles are resilient. Her digestive motors don't need any tinkering.

Spend energy and you create more. If you aren't highly energized the smallest task is more than you can tackle. Women who putter all their lives are seldom happy women. Accomplishing little or nothing, they wonder what it's all about. If they would take up some form of exercise, get their bodies in tip-top condition, their spirits would be higher. We're all for activity because activity is a law of life.

Outdoor sports are best because they are refreshing to the spirits. The busy ones among us may not be able to spare the time or find the opportunity, although a brisk walk can always be managed. Pick up your heels, lift your chest, keep your head balanced, hold in your tummy, drink in the fresh air. You'll make your lungs laugh.

Calesthenics aren't tedious if you find the right ones and change them each day so you avoid too much of a routine. We offer some suggestions. Try them out, take your choice. Remember that the more you exercise the better you will like this recreation. It won't bore you. You will experience physical and mental exhilaration.

Get down on the floor on hands and knees, fingers pointing toward each other. Slowly lower your body until the chest almost touches the floor. Splendid for reducing large arms and normalizing the bust.

Lie on the back on the floor, hands at the sides. Lift the legs slowly. See how far over your head you can lift them. Lower them slowly. Not easy. Splendid to strengthen the muscles of the back and to reduce a tummy that has gone in for expansion, ruined the effect of pretty frocks.

Stand tall, hands above the head, swing from side to side, pivoting at the waistline. Keep the abdomen flat. Limbers the whole body, makes for grace and agility. With hands above the head, swing them forward and back. Keep the legs rigid.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, Feb. 6.

The auguries for this day point to very definite and persistent obstacles, with deep-rooted opposition and hostility. Indulgence in fury and unrestricted impetuosity may fan the fiery flame and precipitate a devastating holacaust. But a firm grip on inclinations to violence and passion, with tact, diplomacy and strategem, may combine to avert disaster. The danger is from strife, contention and litigation. Make any change prudently.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which any sort of gain and satisfaction must be wrested from a state of hostility, fiery opposition, deep-seated impediments and a generally turbulent and malignant state of affairs. To meet violence with violence, and passion with strife, would be calamitous and probably end in fruitless litigation. Reserve, restraint and finesse, even intrigue, may win the day.

A child born on this day may be bold and enterprising, but tempestuous, reckless and ungoverned in temper and speech, thereby inciting violent opposition, hate and litigation.

AVOID GIVING GIFTS

NOBODY has yet seen the player who never gives away tricks by his mistakes in the play of the cards. If such a person ever appeared, he would save so many points by avoidance of errors, that he could afford to get along without making the brilliant sallies for extra tricks which are sometimes witnessed. Many more tricks are swung from one side to the other by errors than by extreme skill. It is therefore profitable to concentrate more on the avoidance of giving gifts than upon learning how to earn tricks by fancy artifices.

In either duplicate or rubber bridge, it is more profitable to set your opponents three tricks, when neither side is vulnerable, than to make a game of your own, but less profitable to set them only two tricks. That was the main point of this deal. East bid 1-Heart, South 2-Diamonds, North 3-Diamonds, East 3-Hearts, South 4-Diamonds and West doubled, guessing that he could set the contract three, considering that he had a partner who bid up to three unaided by him.

West made a somewhat unorthodox lead of the spade 2, dummy ducking and East taking with his K. East returned the heart K and heart Q, West playing first the 4 and then the 5. That should have indicated to East that West wanted him to switch, but East paid no attention. He followed with his heart A, which the declarer ruffed in his own hand, discarding a club from dummy.

That one mistake was fatal to East and West. Thereafter they could get only one trick in clubs. Added to the three already in, plus the diamond A, it brought their total to just five, setting the contract two instead of three. If there is any one defensive mistake which usually is the worst possible, it is in leading a suit in which the declarer is blank in both his own hand and dummy.

Salads Add Zest To Meals

BY ALICE LYNN BARRY.

Today is salad day, and we are emphasizing those delicious frozen salads which are becoming popular.

Eggless Mayonnaise is the first recipe, one that has been requested by several friends. It is made with one teaspoon confectioners' sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon mustard and paprika, one-fourth cup evaporated milk, one cup oil, two tablespoons vinegar, two tablespoons evaporated milk. Measure sugar salt mustard, paprika and the quarter cup milk into a bowl. Beat well. Beat in one-fourth cup oil, a teaspoon at a time, to form an emulsion. Then add remainder of oil and vinegar, alternately, beating well after each addition. Add the two tablespoons milk and beat again thoroughly. Yield: one and one-half cups.

Frozen Cheese Salad is made with a three-ounce package cream cheese, one-fourth cup mayonnaise, one small can chilled evaporated milk, two tablespoons lemon juice, three-fourths cup chopped dates and a No. 1 can crushed pineapple, drained. Mash cheese, and blend in mayonnaise. Whip milk very stiff. Add lemon juice. Fold in fruit and cheese mixture lightly. Pour into cold freezing trays. Press partition in place to freeze mixture in cubes. Serve on crisp lettuce or watercress with or without salad dressing. Delicious when served on peach or pear halves, or slices of pineapple. Yield: One and one-fourth pints, or 16 large cubes.

Family Favorite.

Frozen Fruit Salad is pretty sure to become a family favorite throughout the year. Make it with one No. 2 can fruit salad, 16 marshmallows (four ounces), one tall can chilled evaporated milk, three tablespoons lemon juice, one-fourth cup mayonnaise and one-half cup black walnuts, pecans or almonds, chopped. Drain fruit well. Cut apricots and peaches in one-half inch pieces, and cherries in halves. Cut marshmallows in eighths. These cut easily with scissors which have been dipjped in hot water. Whip milk very stiff. Fold in lemon juice, mayonnaise, marshmallows, nuts and fruit. Pour at once into cold freezing trays. Slice and serve on crisp lettuce leaves, with or without salad dressing. Yield: Three pints.

Frozen Roquefort Salad will delight those who are partial to this tangy cheese. Make it with one three-ounce package of cream cheese, one wedge portion of Roquefort cheese, one-fourth cup mayonnaise, one small can or two-thirds cup chilled evaporated milk, one and one-half tablespoons lemon juice and one-fourth cup finely-cut watercress. Mash cheese, and blend with mayonnaise. Whip chilled milk very stiff. Fold in lemon juice, then cheese mixture and watercress. Pour at once into cold freezing tray. Press partition in place to freeze mixture in cubes. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves or on watercress. Yield: One pint, or 12 cubes.

BORAH BELIEVED COURT BED ROCK OF DEMOCRACY

Senator Fought Reorganization Bill, Felt Court Alone Preserved Constitution.

(Editor's Note The late Senator Borah believed the supreme court has preserved American democracy by upholding human rights. It explains his great defense of that tribunal's independence. His private views are revealed in the following article, the 14th in a series on the famous statesman by William K. Hutchinson of International News Service.)

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON—William Edgar Borah regarded the supreme court of the United States as the bed rock of American democracy, because of its great record in preserving the constitutional guarantees of human rights

This explains why he battled so valiantly to defeat President Roosevelt's court enlargement bill, submitted to congress three years ago today. He believed the court's independence had to be maintained if democracy was to survive in America. He felt grateful too, to the court, in a belief it had preserved democracy in America by outlawing the early New Deal's legislative program.

He loved the constitution but he believed the court alone could make it effective. And he believed the court, if left independent, could preserve the American form of government in this nation forever.

Once in the first Roosevelt administration, when congress was "rubber-stamping" the New Deal's legislative program, I asked him:

"Are we heading toward dictatorship?"

"No," he replied. "The supreme court will save us."

There followed a deluge of unconstitutional decrees from the court. When it outlawed the NRA, he made a radio speech saying of the constitution:

"Modern forces — political and economic—are chafing under the restraint of our constitution. It may be that it is destined to go. That would not be so strange.

"It is 146 years old; the oldest constitution in the world. But, if it should go—either by absolute rejection or by a transformation which would leave little of its former spirit and purpose—still it would have served the cause of human freedom and the advancement and enlargement of human happiness as has no other document in the history of the world.

"Under it the average citizen emerged from a state of serfdom to that of a sovereign. Great progress and more universal happiness has been the portion of the masses since the year 1789 than in all the 5,000 years preceding it.

"Whatever, therefore, may be the future of the American constitution, 'the past is secure'."

Believing as he did about the constitution, it was natural for him to "stand by" the court when it enforced that document. Posterity lost his "undelivered" speech in the court battle but he intended to say this:

"The supreme court has the greatest record for the defense of human liberties of any institution created by the hand of man."

Borah took an intense interest in the appointment of new justices. He was elated when President Hoover promised him to name Benjamin N. Cardozo to succeed the late Oliver Wendell Holmes. He deemed Cardozo a great champion of human liberties.

Borah voted against confirmation of Charles Evans Hughes and helped lead the fight that rejected the nomination of John J. Parker of North Carolina.

He voted against confirmation of Justice Hugo Black.

The Reed and Frankfurter appointments met his approval.

Over the nomination of William O. Douglas he was so active that he later reported:

"The president got mad at me because I was trying to name his justices for him."

Once I heard a report that Senator Lewis Schwellenbach of Washington, had been tendered the nomination. I told that to Borah, who replied:

"No, Douglas will get the appointment."

"Why?"

"Because Black thought he had sold the president on Schwellenbach but I've sold Norris on Douglas and Douglas will get the appointment."

He referred to his lifelong friend, Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska independent and close friend of Roosevelt.

I asked why he was so interested in Douglas

"Because of the court," was his crytic reply. "I believe in it."

When Justice Frank Murphy was first named attorney general in January, 1939, he told me:

"Murphy won't last long in that job. He's too keen on enforcing the law against crooked politicians."

When Murphy was named to the supreme court in January, 1940, he told me:

"I told you so. They've got Murphy. But he'll make a great justice. I've been for him ever since the sitdown strikes. He did a masterful job, handling it with wisdom, patience and foresight, in settling that vicious situation without shedding human blood. Why, he might have had a revolution on his hands if he had done the wrong thing."

Borah had a little joke with me. When the supreme court rendered a decision that upheld his view of the constitution, he would smile and say:

"I was sustained again today."

When the court's verdict conflicted with his judgment, he would say:

"I was overruled but it's a bad decision. They will reverse it before very long."

3,000 Russians Slain As Bombs Rain Down.

(By International News Service)

HELSINKI—No less than 3,000 Russian soldiers were slain, it was estimated unofficially today, when Finnish defenders hurled back four Soviet onslaughts against the Summa sector of the Mannerheim line on the Karelian Isthmus.

The Soviet infantry attacks against the Finnish fortifications were supportetd by 200 warplanes and coincided with a series of air raids over Finland that killed scores and wounded still more.

Despite their reverses and the loss of nine armored cars, the Russians widened their operations to the east on the blood-stained isthmus and fighting raged east of Lake Moulajaervi.

Eleven Soviet planes were shot down during the raids. Two hundred bombs were dropped on Abo, already partly destroyed, and 100 houses at Sortavalla were burned as that town on the shore of Lake Ladoga was hammered by bombs from 92 planes

Score Dead In New Attacks On Shipping.

LONDON — (INS) — Four ships went to the bottom and almost a score of lives were lost in German air raids against shipping along the British coast on Saturday, a survey revealed today.

(Berlin claimed 14 ships were sunk.)

It was established that three of the German bombers were shot down and a fourth was damaged.

The sunken ships were the British steamed Kildale, the Norwegian freighter Tempo, the Belgian steamer Charlotte and the Swedish ship Maria.

The British admiralty announced bodies of three German airmen were washed ashore at Druridge Bay, Northumberland.

OSLO — (INS) — Owners of the Norwegian freighter Segovia, a 1,387-ton vessel, expressed fears today that the ship has been lost with its crew of 22 and one passenger.

The Segovia was last reported in the Bay of Biscay Jan. 20.

STOCKHOLM — (INS) — The 1,357-ton Swedish steamer Andalusia was overdue at Gothenburg from Bordeaux, France, today and was believed to have been sunk. The vessel carried a crew of 21 men.

Predict New Black Sea Pact By Entente.

BUCHAREST, Rumania—(U.P.)—A Black Sea pact, which would strengthen the Balkan entente and at the same time act as a barrier against Russian penetration in the Balkans, may result from the Balkan Entente meeting at Belgrade, it was reported today.

Members of such a pact, according to reports here, would be Rumania, Turkey and Bulgaria. It was believed possible that Greece also might be included, because of her shipping interests in the Black Sea.

The first step toward a new Black Sea pact, including Bulgaria, would be a rapprochement between Rumania and Bulgaria, and according to reports received here from Belgrade, this seems now to be well on the way toward realization, thanks largely to the work of Sukru Saracoglu, Turkish foreign minister.

17TH DISTRICT VOTES TUESDAY

Dann garage on Parkwood boulevard.

Byron B. Ashbrook, Johnstown, one of the six Democratic candidates for the nomination for congress in the 17th district, escaped injury Saturday at Shelby when the car he was driving was struck by another automobile.

Ashbrook, nephew of the late Congressman William A. Ashbrook, was driving west on Main street when his car was sideswiped by one operated by J. V. Winans, Shelby. Neither driver was hurt, but both cars were damaged.

Ashbrook and the eight other candidates for the Democratic and Republican nominations Tuesday were finishing a whirlwind primary campaign today that extended to the six counties in the 17th district.

The Democratic candidates were to speak at Mt. Vernon tonight at the city's annual Jeffersonian banquet

Seeking the Democratic nomination are Ashbrook; Frank Cave, Mansfield; Dr. Ben A. Arneson, Delaware; Atty. William Haas, Delaware; Atty. George J. McDonald, Newark, and Burch Ferenbaugh of Danville.

Aspirants for the Republican nomination are J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette; Walter B. Woodward, Bellville and Col. Oliver H. Dockery, jr., of Newark.

A light primary vote was also predicted in the 22nd congressional district which will hold a special primary Tuesday to select nominees for the post held by the late Congressman Chester C. Bolton.

Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, widow of the congressman, will have no opposition on the Republican ticket, but two Democrats are in the race. Anthony A. Fleger of Parma, defeated for re-election two years ago, will be opposed for the nomination by Merritt A. Vickery, Lakewood councilman.

fellow workers, was on the job today.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said that James E. Warrack, superintendent of the department would be called before him today and instructions would be given to see that employes in the department "get along."

"As far as I am concerned, they must get along and Warrack will be told to see that they do," Crafton said.

Ten repairmen in the department had protested to city officials that Bolley assumed charge of the meter repair department and asked that he be required to share in overtime and do the same work as they.

Bolley had been transferred to the outside work several weeks ago but last week was ordered by Crafton to resume the inside job today. He had been ill for some time and was under a physician's care.

Mayor William J. Locke, asked if he planned to take action in the matter of the petition, said that it was in the hands of the service director and the superintendent of the waterworks.

"When the time arrives that they cannot handle the situation I'll take a hand in the matter," he said.

Charges of negligence and lack of proper supervision were directed to waterworks officials by City Electrician Ernest Adams who disclosed that approximately 50 fire alarm and police call boxes were thrown out of service for failure of waterworks employes to follow blue prints when cutting through the pavement.

Adams recalled that following a similar accident caused by waterworks employes several months ago city officials had given instructions that the maps were to be followed when a street opening was made downtown.

He said that the waterworks supervision had completely ignored the procedure during the past month.

Pointing out that the workmen had cut through the main cable with an air hammer at 1 a. m., he said it would probably be late today before even temporary service could be restored.

Dan Lorrain got his brother. They found their father and mother lying side by side on a bed, dead. Each had a bullet wound in the head. Their father had left them two notes. One said: "I am sick and disgusted. I have done all I can, and can do no more. I want to end her suffering." The other said: "Keep the dog tied up. He eats the eggs."

BYRON B. ASHBROOK

Democratic Candidate for

CONGRESS

at the Special Primaries February 6

Tomorrow the Democrats of the 17th District will select their candidate for the forthcoming Special Election to fill the vacancy created by the death of my uncle, the late Congressman William A. Ashbrook. As his close business associate for so many years—his successor in life as far as he could place his confidence and trust—I ask only to complete the unexpired term to which he was elected.

I give no great pledge or promise to entice your vote, except, that if I am nominated and elected to Congress I will faithfully and cheerfully serve you and represent your best interests to the full extent of my ability. Many years of association with Congreshman Ashbrook has instilled into me the knowledge that good old fashioned horse-sense is the first requisite in all personal and governmental activities. You know his record in Congress. If, with your permission I am nominated and elected, his record will be my aim.

Every sane man and woman detests war, or any foreign entanglements that might involve this wonderful country. We all strive for economy without being penurious. The proper care and comfort of the aged and needy, is an obligation we graciously assume. Stabilization of employment and a more adequate compensation to the farmer are two problems that must be solved. The extreme in any issue, however, is always foolhardy. Upon these principles—the principles that have satisfied the 17th District for so many years—your endorsement is asked. May I have your approval.

Two Title Bouts Head Fund Mat Show Tonight

SPORTS NEWS-JOURNAL

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1940

Hall, Weidner Defend Honors In Armory Ring

Four Matches on Wrestling Card to Be Staged for Benefit of Finnish Civilians.

PROMOTER Tim Nolan and the Quality athletic club will do their bit for the Finnish Relief Fund tonight.

A mat program featuring four matches will go into the Armory ring tonight, and a percentage of the proceeds will be turned over to the News-Journal for the fund.

Two world's championship bouts are included on the all-star card, which Nolan describes as "the best I've ever staged in Mansfield."

Stacy Hall of Columbus, former Big Ten champion, will place his world's light-heavyweight honors on the block in a match with the Masked Marvel, unbeaten in 94 matches.

Billy Weidner, San Francisco, will defend his junior world's light-heavy laurels against Walter Stratton of Leetonia, O.

In the other matches, Bob Steele, young Mansfield star, will face Ralph Akers of Flint, Mich., and Bull Marrino of Brooklyn will tangle with the popular Davey Reynolds of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

The ability of every wrestler on tonight's card is well known to Mansfield fans, who will pack the Armory to the rafters if the pre-show sale is an indication of the interest.

Hall has never appeared in a Mansfield ring, but he needs no introduction of the average mat fan. The former Ohio State star won the light-heavy crown from Frankie Talaber of Chicago, and his match here tonight will mark one of his first defenses of the newly-won crown.

Hall will face a clever performer in the Masked Marvel, and, according to the agreement, he will be forced to unmask if he loses to the champion.

Weidner will also be opposed by a capable catch-as-catch-can artist in Stratton, a former world's weight-lifting champion. Stratton is one of the better younger grapplers in the light-heavy division, and is accorded a better chance of lifting the title from Weidner than the Masked Marvel is of winning from Hall.

Steele, Akers, Marrino and Reynolds have appeared on past Mansfield cards, and tonight's spectators are assured of action in these matches.

* * *

The admission for tonight's show is $1 for ringside seats and 50 cents for general admission. The first bout is scheduled at 8:15 p. m.

Toledo Cagers Seek Ohio Van

Play Carroll, Washington in Games This Week.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Toledo's slightly cooled Rockets have a fairly bright chance of regaining the State College basketball leadership from Miami this week.

The Rockets tonight entertain John Carroll, which they trounced 52-38 on the Clevelander's court Saturday, and meet George Washington University here Thursday.

They need victories in both games, while Miami is losing at least one, to regain the lead. Miami has 10 victories and one loss for the season against Toledo's three defeats in 21 starts.

Miami has its work cut out in games with other members of the old Buckeye league. The Redskins Tuesday journey to Dayton, loser to Ohio Wesleyan by a single point last Saturday, and next Saturday entertain Ohio U., which features high-scoring Frankie Baumholtz. The Bobcat forward has 235 points for 14 games.

* * *

Wooster gets another chance to take the Ohio conference lead from Muskingum. The Muskies entertain Mount Union Saturday and a loss would throw them into second place should Wooster's Scots hurdle last-place Heidelberg Thursday and Case Saturday.

Neither Muskingum nor Wooster have been defeated in league play, the Muskies having won eight and the Scots six.

BARONS HOLD ONE-POINT LEAD OVER HERSHEY B'RS

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Cleveland's Barons clung to a slender one-point lead over Hershey today in the International-American Hockey league which meant undisputed possession of third place in the western section.

The Barons came from behind twice last night at Indianapolis to tie the division leading Capitals, 2-2. Blake evened matters in the second period after Giesebrecht had tallied in the opening stanza and Hansen duplicated in the third period following a second period goal by Douglas of the Caps.

Landis Ruling Hits Mid-Atlantic

CANTON — (AP) — President Oscar Barkey of the Canton Terriers saw "slim chance" today for operation next summer of the Mid-Atlantic Baseball league as the result of the ruling by Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, that major league teams must have direct operation of farm clubs.

The Terriers were part of the chain system of the Boston Red Sox as a farm of the Rocky Mount, N. C., team of the Piedmont league. Barkey was informed by Billy Evans, head of the Red Sox farm system, that this connection was "being terminated immediately."

Directors of the Terriers decided to put a team in the field, however, if the league continues operation.

Purdue-Indiana Game Tops Sked

CHICAGO — (UP) — A minor flurry of non-conference games this week leads into the second phase of the Big Ten basketball campaign which opens Saturday night with the bitterest feud in the game today—Purdue against Indiana.

They'll battle for the lead, or a share of it, in a packed fieldhouse at Bloomington, Ind. The game has been a sell-out for a week.

Tonight, Iowa, Ohio State and Wisconsin complete their mid-year engagements against outside opposition. Iowa plays DePauw of Greencastle, Ind., Ohio State meets the Mexico Y. M. C. A. and Butler travels to Wisconsin. Chicago winds up its non-conference schedule at Milwaukee Wednesday night against Marquette's troublesome sharpshooters.

Battle to Tie In Cage Game

Basketeers of the Mansfield Y. M. C. A. and Crestline Eagles did the unusual Saturday night—they played a game which ended in a tie score! The final count was 36-36.

Officials checked both score sheets after the players were in the showers and decided to set the score stand. It was a nip-and-tuck tussle all the way with the lead changing hands several times. Bayer paced the Mansfielders with 12 points, while Fisher was high for the Crestline team with nine markers.

BORAH BELIEVED COURT BED ROCK OF DEMOCRACY

Senator Fought Reorganization Bill, Felt Court Alone Preserved Constitution.

(Editor's Note The late Senator Borah believed the supreme court has preserved American democracy by upholding human rights. It explains his great defense of that tribunal's independence. His private views are revealed in the following article, the 14th in a series on the famous statesman by William K. Hutchinson of International News Service.)

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON—William Edgar Borah regarded the supreme court of the United States as the bed rock of American democracy, because of its great record in preserving the constitutional guarantees of human rights.

This explains why he battled so valiantly to defeat President Roosevelt's court enlargement bill, submitted to congress three years ago today He believed the court's independence had to be maintained if democracy was to survive in America. He felt grateful too, to the court, in a belief it had preserved democracy in America by outlawing the early New Deal's legislative program.

He loved the constitution but he believed the court alone could make it effective. And he believed the court, if left independent, could preserve the American form of government in this nation forever.

Once in the first Roosevelt administration, when congress was "rubber-stamping" the New Deal's legislative program, I asked him:

"Are we heading toward dictatorship?"

"No," he replied. "The supreme court will save us."

"There followed a deluge of unconstitutional decrees from the court. When it outlawed the NRA, he made a radio speech saying of the constitution:

"Modern forces — political and economic—are chafing under the restraint of our constitution It may be that it is destined to go. That would not be so strange.

"It is 146 years old; the oldest constitution in the world. But, if it should go—either by absolute rejection or by a transformation which would leave little of its former spirit and purpose—still it would have served the cause of human freedom and the advancement and enlargement of human happiness as has no other document in the history of the world.

"Under it the average citizen emerged from a state of serfdom to that of a sovereign. Great progress and more universal happiness has been the portion of the masses since the year 1789 than in all the 5,000 years preceding it.

"Whatever, therefore, may be the future of the American constitution, 'the past is secure'."

Believing as he did about the constitution, it was natural for him to "stand by" the court when it enforced that document. Posterity lost his "undelivered" speech in the court battle but he intended to say this:

"The supreme court has the greatest record for the defense of human liberties of any institution created by the hand of man"

Borah took an intense interest in the appointment of new justices. He was elated when President Hoover promised him to name Benjamin N. Cardozo to succeed the late Oliver Wendell Holmes. He deemed Cardozo a great champion of human liberties.

Borah voted against confirmation of Charles Evans Hughes and helped lead the fight that rejected the nomination of John J. Parker of North Carolina.

He voted against confirmation of Justice Hugo Black.

The Reed and Frankfurter appointments met his approval.

Over the nomination of William O. Douglas he was so active that he later reported:

"The president got mad at me because I was trying to name his justices for him."

Once I heard a report that Senator Lewis Schwellenbach of Washington, had been tendered the nomination. I told that to Borah, who replied:

"No, Douglas will get the appointment."

"Why?"

"Because Black thought he had sold the president on Schwellenbach but I've sold Norris on Douglas and Douglas will get the appointment."

He referred to his lifelong friend, Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska independent and close friend of Roosevelt

I asked why he was so interested in Douglas.

"Because of the court," was his crytic reply. "I believe in it."

When Justice Frank Murphy was first named attorney general in January, 1939, he told me:

"Murphy won't last long in that job. He's too keen on enforcing the law against crooked politicians"

When Murphy was named to the supreme court in January, 1940, he told me:

"I told you so. They've got Murphy. But he'll make a great justice. I've been for him ever since the sitdown strikes. He did a masterful job, handling it with wisdom, patience and foresight, in settling that vicious situation without shedding human blood. Why, he might have had a revolution on his hands if he had done the wrong thing."

Borah had a little joke with me When the supreme court rendered a decision that upheld his view of the constitution, he would smile and say:

"I was sustained again today."

When the court's verdict conflicted with his judgment, he would say:

"I was overruled but it's a bad decision. They will reverse it before very long."

3,000 Russians Slain As Bombs Rain Down.

(By International News Service)

HELSINKI—No less than 3,000 Russian soldiers were slain, it was estimated unofficially today, when Finnish defenders hurled back four Soviet onslaughts against the Summa sector of the Mannerheim line on the Karelian Isthmus.

The Soviet infantry attacks against the Finnish fortifications were supported by 200 warplanes and coincided with a series of air raids over Finland that killed scores and wounded still more.

Despite their reverses and the loss of nine armored cars, the Russians widened their operations to the east on the blood-stained isthmus and fighting raged east of Lake Moulajaervi.

Eleven Soviet planes were shot down during the raids. Two hundred bombs were dropped on Abo, already partly destroyed, and 100 houses at Sortavalla were burned as that town on the shore of Lake Ladoga was hammered by bombs from 92 planes.

Score Dead In New Attacks On Shipping.

LONDON —(INS)— Four ships went to the bottom and almost a score of lives were lost in German air raids against shipping along the British coast on Saturday, a survey revealed today.

(Berlin claimed 14 ships were sunk.)

It was established that three of the German bombers were shot down and a fourth was damaged

The sunken ships were the British steamed Kildale, the Norwegian freighter Tempo, the Belgian steamer Charlotte and the Swedish ship Maria.

The British admiralty announced bodies of three German airmen were washed ashore at Druridge Bay, Northumberland.

OSLO —(INS)— Owners of the Norwegian freighter Segovia, a 1,387-ton vessel, expressed fears today that the ship has been lost with its crew of 22 and one passenger.

The Segovia was last reported in the Bay of Biscay Jan. 20.

Predict New Black Sea Pact By Entente.

BUCHAREST, Rumania—(U.P.)—A Black Sea pact, which would strengthen the Balkan entente and at the same time act as a barrier against Russian penetration in the Balkans, may result from the Balkan Entente meeting at Belgrade, it was reported today.

Members of such a pact, according to reports here, would be Rumania, Turkey and Bulgaria. It was believed possible that Greece also might be included, because of her shipping interests in the Black Sea.

The first step toward a new Black Sea pact, including Bulgaria, would be a rapprochement between Rumania and Bulgaria, and according to reports received here from Belgrade, this seems now to be well on the way toward realization, thanks largely to the work of Sukru Saracoglu, Turkish foreign minister.

17TH DISTRICT VOTES TUESDAY

Light Balloting of 6,500 Seen for Richland County Because of Lagging Interest.

Dann garage on Parkwood boulevard

Byron B. Ashbrook, Johnstown, one of the six Democratic candidates for the nomination for congress in the 17th district, escaped injury Saturday at Shelby when the car he was driving was struck by another automobile.

Ashbrook, nephew of the late Congressman William A. Ashbrook, was driving west on Main street when his car was sideswiped by one operated by J. V. Winans, Shelby. Neither driver was hurt, but both cars were damaged.

Ashbrook and the eight other candidates for the Democratic and Republican nominations Tuesday were finishing a whirlwind primary campaign today that extended to the six counties in the 17th district.

The Democratic candidates were to speak at Mt. Vernon tonight at the city's annual Jeffersonian banquet

Seeking the Democratic nomination are Ashbrook; Frank Cave, Mansfield; Dr. Ben A. Arneson, Delaware; Atty. William Haas, Delaware; Atty. George J. McDonald, Newark, and Burch Ferenbaugh of Danville.

Aspirants for the Republican nomination are J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette; Walter B. Woodward, Bellville and Col. Oliver H. Dockery, jr., of Newark.

A light primary vote was also predicted in the 22nd congressional district which will hold a special primary Tuesday to select nominees for the post held by the late Congressman Chester C. Bolton.

Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, widow of the congressman, will have no opposition on the Republican ticket, but two Democrats are in the race. Anthony A. Fleger of Parma, defeated for re-election two years ago, will be opposed for the nomination by Merritt A. Vickery, Lakewood councilman.

fellow workers, was on the job today.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said that James E. Warrack, superintendent of the department would be called before him today and instructions would be given to see that employes in the department "get along."

"As far as I am concerned, they must get along and Warrack will be told to see that they do," Crafton said.

Ten repairmen in the department had protested to city officials that Bolley assumed charge of the meter repair department and asked that he be required to share in overtime and do the same work as they.

Bolley had been transferred to the outside work several weeks ago but last week was ordered by Crafton to resume the inside job today. He had been ill for some time and was under a physician's care.

Mayor William J Locke, asked if he planned to take action in the matter of the petition, said that it was in the hands of the service director and the superintendent of the waterworks.

"When the time arrives that they cannot handle the situation I'll take a hand in the matter," he said.

Charges of negligence and lack of proper supervision were directed to waterworks officials by City Electrician Ernest Adams who disclosed that approximately 50 fire alarm and police call boxes were thrown out of service for failure of waterworks employes to follow blue prints when cutting through the pavement.

Adams recalled that following a similar accident caused by waterworks employes several months ago city officials had given instructions that the maps were to be followed when a street opening was made downtown.

He said that the waterworks supervision had completely ignored the procedure during the past month.

Pointing out that the workmen had cut through the main cable with an air hammer at 1 a. m., he said it would probably be late today before even temporary service could be restored.

California Farmer Warns Of Dog In Death Notes.

PLACERVILLE, Cal. —(UP)— Charles A. Lorrain, 75, a farmer, executed his 76-year-old wife because she was suffering from an incurable disease. He then tidied the house and telephoned his son, Dan, in Sacramento, 35 miles away. "Your mother is dead," he said. "You'd better get Warren and come home."

Dan Lorrain got his brother. They found their father and mother lying side by side on a bed, dead. Each had a bullet wound in the head. Their father had left them two notes. One said: "I am sick and disgusted I have done all I can, and can do no more. I want to end her suffering." The other said: "Keep the dog tied up. He eats the eggs."

BYRON B. ASHBROOK
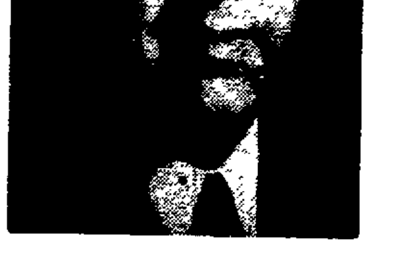
CONGRESS



at the Special Primaries February 6

Tomorrow the Democrats of the 17th District will select their candidate for the forthcoming Special Election to fill the vacancy created by the death of my uncle, the late Congressman William A. Ashbrook. As his close business associate for so many years—his successor in life as far as he could place his confidence and trust—I ask only to complete the unexpired term to which he was elected.

I give no great pledge or promise to entice your vote, except, that if I am nominated and elected to Congress I will faithfully and cheerfully serve you and represent your best interests to the full extent of my ability. Many years of association with Congreshman Ashbrook has instilled into me the knowledge that good old fashioned horse-sense is the first requisite in all personal and governmental activities. You know his record in Congress. If, with your permission I am nominated and elected, his record will be my aim.

Every sane man and woman detests war, or any foreign entanglements that might involve this wonderful country. We all strive for economy without being penurious. The proper care and comfort of the aged and needy, is an obligation we graciously assume. Stabilization of employment and a more adequate compensation to the farmer are two problems that must be solved. The extreme in any issue, however, is always foolhardy. Upon these principles—the principles that have satisfied the 17th District for so many years—your endorsement is asked. May I have your approval.

SIGNED BY TECH

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— William (Biff) Glasford, of Lancaster, O., former guard at Pitt and line coach at Manhattan, has been named line coach of the Carnegie Tech Tartans.

Four Matches on Wrestling Card to Be Staged for Benefit of Finnish Civilians.

PROMOTER Tim Nolan and the Quality athletic club will do their bit for the Finnish Relief Fund tonight.

A mat program featuring four matches will go into the Armory ring tonight, and a percentage of the proceeds will be turned over to the News-Journal for the fund.

Two world's championship bouts are included on the all-star card, which Nolan describes as "the best I've ever staged in Mansfield."

* * *

Stacy Hall of Columbus, former Big Ten champion, will place his world's light-heavyweight honors on the block in a match with the Masked Marvel, unbeaten in 94 matches.

Billy Weidner, San Francisco, will defend his junior world's light-heavy laurels against Walter Stratton of Leetonia, O.

In the other matches, Bob Steele, young Mansfield star, will face Ralph Akers of Flint, Mich., and Bull Marrino of Brooklyn will tangle with the popular Davey Reynolds of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

The ability of every wrestler on tonight's card is well known to Mansfield fans, who will pack the Armory to the rafters if the pre-show sale is an indication of the interest.

Hall has never appeared in a Mansfield ring, but he needs no introduction of the average mat fan. The former Ohio State star won the light-heavy crown from Frankie Talaber of Chicago, and his match here tonight will mark one of his first defenses of the newly-won crown.

Hall will face a clever performer in the Masked Marvel, and, according to the agreement, he will be forced to unmask if he loses to the champion.

Weidner will also be opposed by a capable catch-as-catch-can artist in Stratton, a former world's weight-lifting champion. Stratton is one of the better younger grapplers in the light-heavy division, and is accorded a better chance of lifting the title from Weidner than the Masked Marvel is of winning from Hall.

Steele, Akers, Marrino and Reynolds have appeared on past Mansfield cards, and tonight's spectators are assured of action in these matches.

* * *

The admission for tonight's show is $1 for ringside seats and 50 cents for general admission. The first bout is scheduled at 8:15 p. m.

Toledo Cagers Seek Ohio Van

Play Carroll, Washington in Games This Week.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Toledo's slightly cooled Rockets have a fairly bright chance of regaining the State College basketball leadership from Miami this week.

The Rockets tonight entertain John Carroll, which they trounced 52-38 on the Clevelander's court Saturday, and meet George Washington University here Thursday.

They need victories in both games, while Miami is losing at least one, to regain the lead. Miami has 10 victories and one loss for the season against Toledo's three defeats in 21 starts.

Miami has its work cut out in games with other members of the old Buckeye league. The Redskins Tuesday journey to Dayton, loser to Ohio Wesleyan by a single point last Saturday, and next Saturday entertain Ohio U., which features high-scoring Frankie Baumholtz. The Bobcat forward has 235 points for 14 games.

* * *

Wooster gets another chance to take the Ohio conference lead from Muskingum. The Muskies entertain Mount Union Saturday and a loss would throw them into second place should Wooster's Scots hurdle last-place Heidelberg Thursday and Case Saturday.

Neither Muskingum nor Wooster have been defeated in league play, the Muskies having won eight and the Scots six.

Landis Ruling Hits Mid-Atlantic

CANTON — (AP) — President Oscar Barkey of the Canton Terriers saw "slim chance" today for operation next summer of the Mid-Atlantic Baseball league as the result of the ruling by Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, that major league teams must have direct operation of farm clubs.

The Terriers were part of the chain system of the Boston Red Sox as a farm of the Rocky Mount, N. C., team of the Piedmont league. Barkey was informed by Billy Evans, head of the Red Sox farm system, that this connection was "being terminated immediately."

Directors of the Terriers decided to put a team in the field, however, if the league continues operation.

Three County Combines Play Tuesday Night.

Three Richland county basketball league combines will swing into action Tuesday night. The top contest finds the Bellville Bluejays invading Ontario, while Lucas goes to Butler. Union tackles the unbeaten Drummer Boys at Shiloh.

The Bellville-Ontario game will be watched with considerable interest as the Bluejays can clinch at least a share of the county championship by beating the Warriors.

Purdue-Indiana Game Tops Sked

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — A minor flurry of non-conference games this week leads into the second phase of the Big Ten basketball campaign which opens Saturday night with the bitterest feud in the game today—Purdue against Indiana.

They'll battle for the lead, or a share of it, in a packed fieldhouse at Bloomington, Ind. The game has been a sell-out for a week.

Tonight, Iowa, Ohio State and Wisconsin complete their mid-year engagements against outside opposition. Iowa plays DePauw of Greencastle, Ind., Ohio State meets the Mexico Y. M. C. A. and Butler travels to Wisconsin. Chicago winds up its non-conference schedule at Milwaukee Wednesday night against Marquette's troublesome sharpshooters.

Battle to Tie In Cage Game

Basketeers of the Mansfield Y. M. C. A. and Crestline Eagles did the unusual Saturday night—they played a game which ended in a tie score! The final count was 36-36.

Officials checked both score sheets after the players were in the showers and decided to set the score stand. It was a nip-and-tuck tussle all the way with the lead changing hands several times. Bayer paced the Mansfielders with 12 points, while Fisher was high for the Crestline team with nine markers.

BUT — I CANT ASK HER TO WAIT ANY LONGER — I MUST RELEASE HER FROM — FROM ANY CLAIM SHE MAY THINK I HAVE ON HER — IT MEANS GOOD-BYE TO HER FOR ME FOREVER —I GUESS!!
HOW TERRIBLE! — HOW AWFUL! THAT SO MANY INNOCENT BEINGS MUST BE SLAUGHTERED AT THE WILL OF JUST A FEW MEN!
HEAVY FIGHTING
YOU'RE RIGHT, DAVID — PAM WOULD NOT HAVE YOU DO OTHERWISE — AND MAYBE SHE'D STILL WAIT — IF YOU'D ASK HER?

New York Traction Shares Edge Into New High Ground for 1939-1940.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A few specialties crawled upward in today's stock market while leaders generally continued their do-nothing tactics of the past week.

New York Traction shares, including Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit and Brooklyn & Queens Transit, edged into new high ground for 1939-40. International Paper preferred tilted forward, along with Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda and Johns-Manville.

Bonds improved selectively. Commodities were narrow and foreign securities markets mixed.

Market optimists found a moderately hopeful note in the survey of the magazine "Steel."

The review said that, notwithstanding the lag in orders and steadily dwindling operations, most producers regard the present situation as far from discouraging.

Studied also were the figures of the department of commerce indicating total retail sales in the United States last year amounted to about 38,000,000,000, or 7 per cent larger than in 1938.

Probe Plane Crash Which Killed 5 In Wedding Party

SEARCH PARTY FINDS CRAFT DOWN IN WOOD

Denver Business Man, Bride of 24 Hours Among Those Killed in Mishap.

(By International News Service)

HAMMOND, La.—Five persons who perished last night when a private cabin monoplane crashed and burned in a dense woodland near the Tangipahoa river, six miles from Hammond, were identified today as members of a Denver wedding party.

All the victims were burned beyond recognition. They were Harry Zimmerhackel, 56, well known Denver business man; his bride of 24 hours, Mrs. Elizabeth Swann Ellis Zimmerhackel, 43; Mrs. Elizabeth McSweeney Powell, 43, cousin of Zimmerhackel and owner of the plane; M. Creed Hinderslider, 29, son of Michael Hinderslider, Colorado State engineer, and Don T. Craig, 31, pilot.

The wedding party was en route to New Orleans from Fort Worth, Texas, when the mishap occurred. Their eventual destination was Havana, where they had planned to go by boat.

Cause of the crash was not known. Only clue to the identities of the victims at the scene was a wallet bearing Craig's name and addresses. A checkup brought confirmation of the identities of the other victims from Denver.

It was at first thought a child had been among those killed, due to discovery of charred baby clothes, but it was learned clothing of Craig's two-year-old son was in his father's traveling bag although the youngster did not make the trip.

An investigation of the tragedy was to be launched by the civil aeronautics authority.

Witnesses reported seeing the ship circle low several times over the town of Hammond a short time before it fell. A motorist told police he saw the plane dive into the woods and then heard it ripping through the trees before coming to a stop. Flames roared up from the spot at once.

Rescue Youth From Mountain Drifts by Sled

(By Associated Press)

LITTLETON, N. H. — Rescued after being lost 28 hours on blizzard-swept slopes of lofty Mt. Washington, Webster N. Jones, jr., 19, Harvard sophomore, was given a "good chance" today of recovering from the ordeal.

Physicians said his toes were seriously frost-bitten and that he was suffering from shock and exposure.

Meanwhile, Karl J. Sax, 20, of Boston, young Jones' companion on the attempted climb, was under treatment at a Harvard infirmary in Cambridge, Mass. There was a possibility, physicians said, that he might lose several frost-bitten fingers. Sax stumbled out of the snow-covered mountains Saturday to spread the alarm of Jones' plight.

Young Jones was found yesterday wrapped in blankets and half buried in snow. Rescuers carried him down a five mile treacherous trail on an improvised stretcher and toboggan.

In addition to these there was the red, white and blue of the American flag.

Patrons in a down town night spot got a bit of exciting "entertainment" late Saturday night when two customers engaged in a fistic tussle that went on without interference from the management. It seems that the management took the view that one of the fist-swinging customers "had it coming to him" and left them battle on unmolested. The tussle stopped, however, when one of the battlers shouted "Enough!"

Mistaking a woman's silk stocking for a scarf can be pretty embarrassing, especially when a man wears the stocking in public, Atty. W. J. Bissman learned Saturday. At the courthouse, someone asked Atty. Bissman if he was trying to establish a new style in neckwear. Innocently, he investigated and found the foot of a silk stocking protruding from his overcoat collar. He explained that he had picked up one of his wife's stockings by mistake as he left home in the morning.

PARKER DIES AS PARDON LOOMS

Sleuth Convicted in Lindbergh Case Victim of Brain Ailment.

(By Associated Press)

LEWISBURG, Pa.—The presidential pardon sought for Ellis Parker, sr., famed small town detective who went to prison in a sequel to the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case, will be a post-humous one if granted.

Death cheated the 68-year-old former Mt. Holly, N. J., sleuth yesterday of a chance for freedom from the Northeastern federal penitentiary here, where he was serving a six-year sentence on conspiracy charges resulting from his activities in the Lindbergh investigation.

While his family arranged funeral services, his attorney, Harry Green, announced he would press for a posthumous pardon "for the purpose of vindicating an old man's name." Green added he would seek similar clemency for Parker's son, Ellis, jr., who is serving a three-year sentence on the same charge.

Eight thousand Burlington county, N. J., residents recently signed a petition for a pardon and U. S. Attorney John J. Quinn, who prosecuted Parker and his son, said he had planned to sign recommendations for a pardon and parole for the elder Parker today.

Parker, convicted with his son in 1937, of conspiring to kidnap Paul H. Wendel, former Trenton, N. J., lawyer, and forcing him by torture to confess falsely the Lindbergh kidnaping, died in the penitentiary hospital of an organic cerebral condition. His son was at his bedside.

SLAYING SUSPECT KILLED BY POSSE

Killing Ends Month-Long Hunt For Colored Fugitive.

PORT GIBSON, Miss.—"Texas Red" Gaunt, colored slaying suspect was killed by a Sheriff's Saturday after an intermittent, month-long, running gun battle with officers.

Sheriff Sam Bagnell said the fugitive was shot down as he fled instead of surrendering when cornered near Hermanville.

Bagnell said "Texas Red" lived 45 minutes but refused to acknowledge or deny the New Year day slaying of Hillard Hill, a white youth, at Meadville.

WATER FAMINE HITS BELLEVUE, RAIL LINE TO FORM TANK TRAIN

(By United Press)

BELLEVUE — A water famine today prompted Safety-Service Director G. A. Williams of Bellevue to ask Nickel Plate railroad officials to begin using a water train immediately.

With the town's water supply at its lowest ebb in 27 years, it can no longer supply the 300,000 gallons used daily for the railroad's locomotives.

The railroad has been collecting tank cars for a week and will make trips to Sandusky bay for water. R. H. Hillhouse, roundhouse foreman, said the train could carry 100,000 gallons each trip.

A deep well has supplied the city with 750,000 gallons of water daily since Nov. 15. The city uses 1,100,000 gallons a day and the difference is made up by drawing from the city's four reservoirs.

Williams said that, at the present rate of water consumption, the reservoir supply might be exhausted in two weeks. Farmers whose wells have gone dry have been refused water by the city. Until a week ago they filled their tanks at the city waterworks, paying 25 cents for 10 barrels.

The city well, which taps an underground stream, is 204 feet deep. Bellevue sewage also is disposed of through other subterranean streams.

The water from the town well is so "hard" that the Nickel Plate railroad has a water-softening plant. Last week the railroad tried to drill a well of its own but the project stalled Saturday when drillers struck hard flint rock 50 feet down.

The town's budget will not permit drilling another well and installing pumping machinery.

SHERIFF SAYS SUSPECT SHOT HUSBAND, WIFE

West Union Man, 26, Accused of Slayings, Burning Home After Robbery.

BULLETIN

WEST UNION—(AP)—Holding one confession involving two robbery slayings, authorities arrested a second suspect today and sought to link the pair with responsibility for a third death.

(By United Press)

WEST UNION, O. — Adams county authorities today placed first degree murder and arson charges against Darwin L. Edington, 26, of West Union, who confessed to them that he killed a married couple and set fire to their log cabin a week ago.

Assistant State Fire Marshall Henry C. Rudd of the Portsmouth district announced that Edington admitted shooting to death Craven Grooms, 33, and his wife, Gwendolyn, 38, early last Monday and robbing the one-room cabin before setting fire to it.

Suspecting foul play, Sheriff George S. Baldridge of Adams county, Deputy Sheriff Grimes Morgan and Rudd began in investigation soon after the charred bodies of the Groomses were found. Edington was taken into custody in Portsmouth Wednesday night. Another man was questioned and released.

Rudd said that Edington, in a written confession, stated that he called Grooms to the door by saying he wanted to buy whisky. He said he shot Grooms over the right temple and Mrs. Grooms in the head as she sat up in bed, aroused by the first shot.

Edington purportedly confessed that he took about $100 from Grooms' pocket, poured two gallons of kerosene on the floor and set it afire. The cabin was destroyed. Authorities said that $55 was buried in a neighbor's garden and was recovered, and that 16 pints of whisky were recovered from a stone quarry.

The officers said that the gun used in the shootings, a .32 caliber automatic pistol which Edington said he stole from the home of Judge Will P. Stephenson of West Union, was recovered from an outhouse.

Deputy Grimes said that Edington was suspected when he began spending money liberally although he had been unemployed.

The bodies of the Groomses were burned beyond recognition and it was impossible for Coroner E. T. Gibboney to determine whether they had been shot.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Why Isn't Man Who Pays Income Tax as Good as The Man Who Pays None?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—A person wants to be careful not to speak out of turn these days, and I don't know but that I am leading with my chin when I suggest that a man who pays an income tax is as good as the man who doesn't and ought to have the same rights.

I am thinking of the inequality between the status of minor children of income taxpayers and that of the young people whom the New Deal classifies as youth. The minor child of a taxpayer is deemed to be old enough to get out and scuffle for his or her own living at the age of 18, but youth is officially regarded as dependent up to the age of 25.

The taxpayer is allowed to deduct $400 a year from his income for each dependent child under the age of 18. The deduction is not allowed after that, even thought the expense of clothing and educating a young man or woman obviously is greater than that of maintaining a child.

They eat more at 18 than they do say at 8; they need a little money for cigarets, phone calls, gas and dates, and their education at that stage of the game calls for tuition and rather expensive books. But the government's theory holds that any young one who can't make his or her own way after 18 is a loafer if the old man is an income taxpayer, but that this large class known as youth should be subsidized and gentled along much further, in fact, up to the age of 25.

The income taxpayer is compelled to pay for the education and support of his neighbor's children beyond 18, but is supposed to kick out his own into the weather — which is rather severe at the current writing.

Worse than that, if a taxpayer's kid does show a dash of speed, intelligence and ability and earns an income by his own efforts the government then reverses its position and holds that, although he is not any longer a dependent of the old gent, nevertheless, the young one's income belongs to the family kitty, in the old man's name.

Even though the kid has supported himself with his earnings in conformity with the treasury's rules of domestic economy laid down for income taxpayers, the sum of his earnings is added to the old man's in order to boost the old man's figure into a higher bracket.

Thus in one case with which I am familiar the kid's earnings of about $25 a week cost the father about $800 in surtaxes which promptly was distributed among the offsprings of non-payers for their assistance in the difficult years beyond 18.

In another case a young woman earning a pretty good salary, but nothing scandalous, is not permitted to make any deduction for the support and education of her younger sister who is 20, the girls being on their own.

Naturally, the wage-earning young woman bares her pearly fangs and snarls slightly over the proposition that her sister is less entitled to a few honest comforts and a thin smear of learning than the young mugs around and about them who are allowed to put in for assistance because their parents are doing poorly.

Her annoyance is aggravated by the knowledge that some portion of the take which the government razors off the top of her salary is used for the assistance of those who are—outwardly, anyway—no better than her young sister.

It may have been observed, too, that there is now in the works in Washington a ballyhoo to increase the assistance to the scions of non-payers of the income tax and to set the knives to take a little deeper cut of such salaries as this young woman's.

The same general discrimination against the taxpaying type of citizen exists in the problem of allowances for the support of dependents who are not children. If they are clear out of the youth zone as to age, no deduction may be made for their support even though the taxpayer's private assistance is all that keeps them off the public assistance rolls.

But at the same time other citizens, including whole families of them, are supported—not luxuriously, it is true—on funds contributed by the same taxpayer and, often, at a rate higher than the figure of $400 a year per person which is all that the government deems necessary for the support of any legal dependent of the taxpayer, except his wife or her husband.

I do not know who it was that hit upon the figure of $400 a year as adequate for the support of a human being, even in a separate domicile or how he arrived at that sum. Certainly it is a sub-standard figure, and everyone has heard the angry outcry that has been raised by New Deal social planners over the ghastly situation of people whose earnings are down around there, not counting their quarters and something in the way of food.

What have we against income taxpayers, anyway, that we place the breed in a human category below that of the nons?

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The backgrounds of fame are quicker-vanishing than fame itself. Artists and artisans work for days to frame an actor's work. It takes the crew half an hour or less to "strike a set" when the actor's work is done.

Today Lewis Seiler is directing Jessie Busley and Aldrich Bowker in a rectory scene for "And It All Came True." Una O'Connor is in it too, but her close-up is finished, and she's just waiting. The rectory is a convincing background—book-lined walls, faded flowered carpet, a prie-dieu with a holy statue and candles.

The scene is done. "Stage 16," calls Russ Saunders, the assistant director, and the flurry begins. It's like a gnomish scene from a Disney picture, the gnomes of the crew having no truck with make-believe. They're tearer-downers, breaker-uppers, mover-overs.

Seiler walks over to 16, and Saunders, and Ernest Haller, the head lenser, and Bill Schurr, the "operative cameraman." It's Frank Gaudio, the second camera, who sees to getting the camera hauled to the new scene of activities.

Saunders no sooner has called "Stage 16" that the crew is in action. Electricians are shuttering their lamps, wheeling them over to waiting trucks. Grips are folding back the carpet, to make sliding-space for wheels. Other grips are toting out a section of "wild wall"—the wall with the rectory window. Propmen are there to reclaim the prie-dieu, the statue, the candles, the chairs. Grips are loading stools, canvas chairs, ladders, and assorted movable paraphernalia on to a truck at the big stage door. Jessie Busley, her day's work finished, is saying goodbyes. . . .

A small tractor shuffles in, hooks on to the mammoth blue prop-truck, shuffles out again and down the studio street between the high grey walls of the stages. . . . In 20 minutes there isn't a sign of the rectory set.

On Stage 16 the hegira is completed. The camera is there, and the lights are already set up, and the mike is ready. It's a precinct police court, and the coppers are sitting around, awaiting the call to action. The grips and the electricians are busy setting up what they've just torn down—arranging the "baby spots" exactly, disposing of canvas chairs and stools and ladders out of camera range. ZaSu Pitts is there, in a red wig and net evening dress and blue cape—ready to give the police her champagne-drunk report on Humphrey Bogart's gangsterish threats.

During all the moving and rattling and banging—it's like spring housecleaning day at home—Saunders and Seiler go over the dialogue with the police chief and with Pitts. By the time things are fairly settled into quiet, ten minutes later, they're rehearsing the scene at the bar of justice—interrupting themselves twice for a procedure that strikes the outsider as slightly loco.

This is when Miss Busley, recalled before she got away, stands under a mike and gasps "Oh!" and "Oh!" and again "Oh!" She's merely making sound-track for a scene she finished days before.

Half an hour—and an entire film troupe has made the transition from the rectory to the police station. The rectory is struck, gone, dead, preserved only on film. Tomorrow, or the next day, or the day after, the new set will follow it.

Ohio Dems Talk 3rd Term After Session With Donahey

SAWYER WOULD BACK F. D. R. IF HE WANTS IT

Limpach Lashes at Heer for Proposal to Reorganize Party in State.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Ohio's members of the Democratic National committee, fresh from a conference with Senator Donahey (D-Ohio), announced themselves today as favoring a third term for President Roosevelt.

The two, Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati and Mrs. Mildred Jaster of Cleveland, were accompanied to the committee's meeting by Arthur Limbach, state chairman, who predicted recently the state's delegation to the Democratic National convention would support the president for renomination.

"If Mr. Roosevelt wants a third term," said Sawyer, "I will support him. He hasn't, however, indicated his position so far as I know."

"I am certainly for the president for another term," said Mrs. Jaster.

Sawyer said he discussed the "Ohio situation" with Donahey and left to the senator the matter of divulging details of the conference. Donahey said he would prepare a statement later

It was understood that the group went over all phases of party strategy in Ohio, among them whether Donahey would run for governor, seek renomination or be the state's "favorite son" candidate for the presidential nomination.

Sawyer and Limbach said they did not take seriously proposals for reorganization of the party in Ohio, made by Franklin County Chairman Walter Heer.

Among Heer's proposals, made public here Friday, was replacement of Sawyer and Limbach.

"I have no quarrel with Mr. Heer and have not read his proposals," Sawyer said. "If he wants to reorganize the Democrats, I would suggest that Franklin county might be a good place to start."

SETS UP PLAN TO NUMBER ALL HOMES HERE

Berg to Submit Suggestion to Council Tomorrow; Maps 3-Ply Program.

City council at its regular February session tomorrow night will have laid before it recommendations calling for extensive corrections in Mansfield's house numbering system.

A request for the revisions will be made by George Berg, chairman of council's street committee.

Along with the proposal, Berg will ask council to:

1. Adopt a uniform number and system of marking.
2. Purchase a new addressograph for the waterworks office.
3. Dedistrict the water and sewer billing.

Berg said today that the latter two suggestions are to be made in order to effect economy by purchasing the equipment and changing the billing at the same time the correction in the numbers is made.

The proposal will go to council after weeks of study by the street and water committee, headed by C. N. Shultz.

Berg said no recommendation would be made as to how the numbers should be corrected but that it would be given to council for their consideration.

Purchase of the new machine in the waterworks office and the cost of redistricting would be financed by funds from the water and sewer departments.

The change of equipment, he said was necessary in the water department office due to the age of the present machine and the necessity of making new number plates for billing.

On recommendation from Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the department, the redistricting of the billing is suggested to more evenly distribute the accounts.

The redistricting would divide the city north and south of Park avenue instead of the present system of East and west of Main street.

It has been estimated that there are 5,400 incorrect numbers on houses in the city. Postal authorities, county officers and utilities will be notified should the change be made, Berg said.

PROGRESS TO CHANGE CHINA AFTER WAR, LECTURER DECLARES

"Resuls of every war bring many changes, and progress will be the first thing to change in China after the present conflict with Japan," Mrs. Marcelle C. Miller, traveler, author and lecturer, told students of Senior high school during a special assembly in the auditorium this morning.

Mrs. Miller is in Mansfield today to open the Mansfield Rotary and University clubs' Institute of international Understanding at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium. She will speak on "Problems in the Far East."

Speaking to the students on "The Orient and Ancient Customs of China," Mrs. Miller told the students that faith has ceased to be a word in the Orient, instead it is something tangible.

"The minute you lose faith in the Orient you have lost prestige, and the minutte you are not important in the Orient you fail to exist," Mrs. Miller told the students. "If China and Japan would stop their war now they would both lose faith," she said.

Speaking about the people of China, Mrs. Miller told the students they do not understand the language from one province to another, and that there are two general languages used in the Orient, English and French. Mrs. Miller continued by telling of the various customs and habits of China.

Marcelle Miller . . . Talks Tonight

Born in Paris, Mrs. Miller was married at the close of the World war to a U. S. Marine corps officer. She is the first woman to speak here in the Institute of Understanding series. Her lecture tonight will be free to the public. After Mrs. Miller's talk she will answer questions from the audience.

Her talk is the first of a series of four on world problems. Others will be given on three consecutive Monday nights in February. Speakers in the series, besides Mrs. Miller will be Prince Hubertus zu Loewenstein, Feb. 12; H. Canfield Cook of Chicago, Feb. 19, and Dr. Benjamin Gerig, Feb. 26.

U. S. FLEET TO TEST WARTIME DEVELOPMENTS

Planes, Ships Set for Pacific Maneuvers Under New Conditions.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The U. S. fleet, during its forthcoming two-month maneuvers in the Pacific will test for the first time recent developments in naval warfare as revealed in the current European struggles, it was learned today.

The naval high command plans to deploy 130 vessels of the U. S. battle fleet and 350 airplanes in a series of exercises designed to test effectiveness of American defenses in the light of latest European experience.

The maneuvers will be conducted in strict secrecy. No newspaperman, photographers or newsreel cameramen will be permitted to witness them.

Operations data and even the exact extent of the area in which the fleet will maneuver are being kept confidential.

The exercises will begin during the first week in April.

Meanwhile the Atlantic squadron and detachments of marines have been undertaking training activities in the Caribbean.

It was believed that this year's exercise would be aimed to test the Alaska-Hawaii-Panama line of defenses, and would embrace wide-scale use of aircraft for long range operations — possibly far outside that line—to show striking and scouting power of modern planes.

The navy several months ago moved the scouting force command to the Hawaiian area, ostensibly to improve its training efficiency and acquaint it with conditions around the nation's major Pacific stronghold.

GANDHI QUITS TALKS IN IRE

Dissatisfied With British Offer To Act 'When Time Comes.'

NEW DELHI, India—(AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi and India's viceroy, Lord Linlithgow, failed today to reach an agreement on Indian demands for independence.

Wrapped in a shawl over his thin cotton robes, the Hindu leader left the conference today hinting he would leave New Delhi tomorrow without waiting for the results of the viceroy's talks with the Moslem faction.

A communique indicated Britain had only offered an oft-repeated assurance to consider India's demands for independence "when the time came"—this time presumably being after the European war.

Gandhi, the communique said, made it plain that the British proposals did not meet the demands of the congress (nationalist) party.

CHIEF PROBES FALSE ALARM

Seeburger Checks on Phone Call, Threatens Arrest of Hoax Perpetrator.

Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger today threatened the arrest of the person responsible for giving a false report of a fire Saturday night which resulted in three companies responding to a call at a downtown night club.

Seeburger said the telephone call had been traced to an East Third street address and that he would seek today to determine the person who placed the call.

The informant, who called the central station at 10:24 p. m. told firemen there was a fire at the Wonder Bar on South Park street. Companies Nos. 1, 2 and 3 responded but were told that no one there had used the telephone.

Firemen said they checked immediately with the telephone company and were given the East Third street address.

"The call not only cost the city $25 but endangered the lives of at least a dozen men who were called to drive the apparatus on slippery streets," the chief said.

He also pointed out that a panic could have easily occurred in the crowded establishment as firemen rushed into the building.

THIS IS NO TIME TO TAKE CHANCES WITH COLDS

With Contagious Colds Increasing Take These Precautions For Your Family's Sake and Your Own

Keep out of crowds as much as possible. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Don't take needless chances. Don't experiment with untried medications. And be sure to have these two time-tested home-approved treatments on hand, ready to use.

At the First Sign of a Cold

Be ready to help prevent many colds from developing. At the first warning sneeze, sniffle, or irritated feeling in your nose—use Vicks VA-TRO-NOL. Just a few drops up each nostril. Right away you can feel Va-tro-nol stimulating Nature's own cold-fighting defenses. It actually helps to keep many colds from developing—or to throw them off in the early stages.

Also use VA-TRO-NOL for swift relief from the suffocating stuffiness and congestion of a head cold.

If a Cold Develops

(Some colds get by all precautions)

Thoroughly massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VAPORUB, then spread on a thick layer of VapoRub, cover with a warmed cloth, and go to bed. VapoRub brings wonderful relief and invites restful sleep. Then hour after hour it keeps working—stimulating the skin like a warming poultice, while its medicinal vapors are breathed into the cold-irritated air passages of nose, throat and chest. Often when morning comes, most of the cold's discomforts are gone.

Now Be Prepared—Get a bottle of Vicks VA-TRO-NOL and a jar of Vicks VAPORUB today and take the above precautions. They may save you a lot of sickness and worry.

EIGHT ENTER PLEAS TODAY

Judge to Hear Defendants Indicted by Grand Jury; Jury Case Settled.

Eight men indicted last week by the county grand jury were to be arraigned at 2 p. m. today before Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court.

The arraignment was moved up from 4:30 p. m. when a case that was to have been tried before the petit jury this afternoon was settled out of court.

Scheduled to enter their pleas this afternoon were James Mayer, Frank Grigsby, and Henderson Imman, accused of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent; Roscoe Kauffman, obtaining money under false pretense; William Lawler, forgery; Willie Gaines, cutting with intent to wound; John Ickes, robbery, and William Earl Glick, non-support.

Settlement of an $1,820 judgment suit out of the court for an unannounced amount this morning left the court calendar open for the rest of the day. Jurors were excused until Tuesday morning.

The judgment action was brought by Naomi Schull against Eugene Schull, executor of the estate of the late Theodore Schull.

On Guard Against Highway Killers!

WHEN you see a motorist insolently crash a red light; dash nonchalantly out of an alley or cross street without stopping; swing impudently around a corner without regard for pedestrians, or climb drunkenly into his car and drive away—don't treat these incidents lightly, or regard them as "none of your business."

The drivers who do these things—and otherwise disregard safe driving rules—are not minor offenders. They are potential killers.

They are the careless, reckless, incompetent or drunken drivers who have been largely responsible, year after year, for the frightful toll of traffic deaths in the United States—and should be dealt with as such!

A report just issued by the National Safety Council reveals that 32,600 persons were killed in motor vehicle accidents in 1939—eighteen more than in 1938—and that 1,150,000 were injured in traffic crashes, with property loss estimated at $1,500,000,000.

The only glimmer of hope seen in this tragic record is that the increase in deaths was less in percentage than the increase in passenger miles traveled last year as compared with the preceding year.

It cannot be assumed, however, that nothing worthwhile was accomplished by all the safety work done during the past year. There has been gradual awakening public conscience as to the necessity of more education of drivers, stricter laws governing issuance of drivers' licenses, and sterner enforcement of traffic laws and regulations in cities and on the highways.

The present ruthless self-destruction, and killing of others, by persons who cannot be safely trusted to drive cars must be substantially reduced before any claim can be made to solution of traffic problems in this state, or in the nation in general.

Master Plumbers Convene Here

DURING the first three days of this week Mansfield is privileged to be the host city for the 49th annual convention of the Ohio State Association of Master Plumbers, its ladies' auxiliary, and also the Ohio Society of Plumbing Inspectors.

Engaged in a business that links closely with public health and convenience, this generation has witnessed amazing progress in what is broadly designated as "plumbing," which, however, is a much broader field than many realize.

Industries involving some phase of plumbing have, within the past few decades, developed marvelously in production and distribution as education in sanitation became more widespread.

Master plumbers have played a prominent part in the forward steps that have been taken in their vocation and the nature of program material scheduled for their business sessions gives an idea of the seriousness with which they regard their responsibility to the public.

Mansfield, as northcentral Ohio's most attractive and readily accessible convention city, welcomes these several hundred visitors who are to be with us through Wednesday, and hopes that their stay here will be pleasant and profitable—also that their impression of Mansfield is so favorable that they will want to come again.

Japan's Growing Difficulties

JAPAN is encountering many difficulties nowadays, and things are apparently getting worse. Its Chinese campaign is stalled by growing resistance. Its military supplies, heretofore obtained mainly from America, may be cut off at any time. Its people are impoverished by war, and there are serious economic and political troubles.

Japan's main trouble comes from her army, a Samurai hold-over which links nobility and prestige with brutal conquest. It is a law to itself, making war at its own sweet will and ignoring parliament. The navy is more liberal and modern. The political government doesn't really govern, so that its foreign negotiations and agreements are ineffective.

In such a situation Japan might run amuck. Nobody can tell when her masters will lead the country into some new, crazy adventure.

Japan needs peace, business recovery and a restoration of friendly relations with America and Great Britain. But the first essential, to the Japanese mind, is to "save face." Japan can't endure humiliation. The situation seems to call for a deft "formula" for Japanese-American relations.

College Students' Fears

A GROUP of psychology students in a southern college have interviewed each other and compiled a list of their fears. The things that terrify them are given as follows: snakes, drunks, water, wild animals, mad dogs, fire, stormy weather, reckless driving and high altitudes.

Final exams are not mentioned. Neither is war. In many ways it seems a curious list which needs further explaining.

It would also be interesting to know what they do about their fears. There are plenty of people who have a wholesome fear of certain things but do not hesitate to face them courageously when occasion demands. Are these young people like that?

More Nut Trees Suggested

A GARDENING EDITOR advises home owners to plant nut trees as well as fruit trees on their land. They produce a crop with high food value and are, at the same time, beautiful and interesting. Most nut trees will mature their fruit anywhere that the Concord grape ripens, which means they may be raised over a large part of the country.

Another good point about nut trees will appeal to the busy person. They are relatively free from pests and diseases and consequently require less spraying than fruit trees. It is a good plan, he tells his readers, to buy named varieties from growers who specialize in nut trees. Cultivation produces nuts superior to the wild ones. The planter can learn from his nurseryman what trees are best to plant in his locality and soil and how to take care of them.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Gregory Taylor back from an 18,000-mile honeymoon through South America, tells an interesting tale of those interned German sailors who were on the Graf Spee. They're going to work on farms, and receive $20 a month, although this money will not be paid them personally. It will be set aside in the interest of the German government. Nice government.

While he was there Taylor talked with some of these lads, and one, a blond kid about 18, seemed especially morose and downcast.

"Don't be like that," Taylor urged him. "You're lucky. You won't be killed. You'll live here in safety, with plenty of good food, and a nice place to sleep. . . . Think of all this freedom, and think of all these pretty girls.

With that the fellow broke out laughing, then quickly recovered himself. "See," he said in a whisper, but in excellent English, "we're not supposed to laugh. But we're tickled to death. I wouldn't go back if they paid me. . . . None of us is ever going back. . . But we can't say that. We aren't supposed to be happy or even smile. . . . That's why all these fellows seem so sad."

ON THIS trip Taylor, who is a New York hotel man (St. Moritz) flew clear across the continent. . . . When he went over the Andes he had to keep an oxygen tube in his mouth. . . . All the trans-Andes planes are equipped with them.

How do the people live down there? "Marvelously well," he says. "The fruit and the fish are wonderful, but the meat isn't as well cured as ours. But you can go hogwild on a dollar. I visited a ranch in Brazil that took us three days to ride across, and then we didn't see all of it. . . . Thousands of acres of vineyards, thousands of head of cattle. . . . Everybody working and everybody eating."

Well, what about this bridegroom business; that's a new role for you to play, isn't it?

HAVE you ever seen a Greek grin? Mr. Taylor is a Greek. He used to pad around the decks of a mackerel boat in the Aegean. . . . "Well," says he, "the bride's from Egypt. I never saw her until she came to visit the Fair last year, but her family and my family are old friends. . . . You know how these things go. . . . We just decided to get married."

This honeymoon required 44 days and covered 18,000 miles through Chili, Brazil, Argentina, and most of the other countries. . . . The finest hotel he found was in Buenos Aires. . . . He did some fishing but didn't have much luck. . . . He took thousands of pictures, of which the still shots were bad but the movies were wonderful. . . . Movies of old ruins which reveal something of a lost civilization.

"That South America is all right," says Taylor, who heretofore thought only Europe would suffice. "With this war, we sure ought to make a lot of new friends."

Listen, World!

You've Got To Learn the Works.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THESE worried folks you meet on every hand—Oldsters as well as Youngsters—who are looking for a job, but don't know which turn to take. Nine times out of ten they ask the same question:

WHAT'LL I DO? WAIT FOR THE JOB I LIKE AND THINK I'M FITTED FOR? OR TAKE THE FIRST THING THAT COMES ALONG?"

Actually there's just one answer to that question. No matter who you are—boy or girl, old or young, rich or poor, clever or smart, famous or obscure—there's one thing you must do before you're fit for any position—

YOU MUST LEARN THE WORKS.

Meaning what? Meaning this—There are certain facts you must face (about Yourself as well as the Other Fellow) . . . certain adjustments you must make . . . certain beatings you must take . . . before you're worth a hoot to yourself or anyone else. These facts have little to do with books or money or age or pull or luck . . . or Knowing The Right People . . . or Swinging The Right Line.

They are simply the lowdown on life and the people who live in it. Not life as it's written in highbrow brochures . . . or dreamed in Bohemian garrets . . . or spouted from cracker boxes . . . or twittered in drawing rooms. But life as it pours through our minds and our hearts wherever we are . . . by kitchen sinks and sewing machines, death beds and birth beds, notion counters and transmission belts, beauty salons, shipping room platforms, penitentiary cells and migrant camp fires.

The lowdown on life. The taste of tears and the sting of sweat and the raw, red rash of shame. The ability to see yourself square and treat the other fellow fair, through joy or distress, failure or success. And, above all, the courage to forget yourself and play ball with the rest of the team, no matter how the breaks may fall. That's what the world is needing and the boss is demanding of you.

The lowdown on life—that's the foundation of any success, whether you're heading toward business or art or science or politics or manual labor or the service of God. And you'll never get anywhere until you've acquired it.

"But won't I spoil my talent or hurt my future if I knock around like that?" perhaps you're saying.

"Don't make me laugh!"

You haven't any talent until you know yourself!

You haven't any future until you know your fellow man!

SO WHAT?

SO GET OUT AND GET BUSY—

ON THE FIRST CHANCE THAT COMES AROUND!

Courage of Mr. Morgenthau.

The secretary of the treasury may not be frightened at billions of dollars but they sound pretty big to people who are used to dealing only in the hundreds or at best in the low thousands. Perhaps that explains why Mr. Morgenthau tells a house committee "that there is no danger involved if Congress would raise the debt limit to 50 billion dollars."

We can admire the courage of the man but must hold back. Because we can't shake off a conviction as to who would have to do the paying of all this debt. Mr. Morgenthau gives a strong hint of it, for at the same time he talks about raising the debt limit by 5 billions he also advocates more taxes. But, he says that if he were asked by the committee what kind of taxes there should be he could not reply "because I do not know."

That's another way for the secretary to admit that he does not know how the debt billions could be repaid. Who does? That being the case, wouldn't prudence counsel us to hold the debt down by holding down the spending and the borrowing?—Kansas City Star.

How It Started

"From Sublime to Ridiculous"

Most frequently used to characterize a sudden change of conversation or action as from a very serious vein to one that is utterly light, from one extreme to another, these words have a noted literary background.

Their origin is attributed to Thomas Paine, celebrated eighteenth century political and deist writer.

The phrase is a contraction of this well-known passage from Age of Reason:

"The sublime and the ridiculous are often so nearly related, that it is difficult to class them separately. One step above the sublime makes the ridiculous and one step above the ridiculous makes the sublime again."

Suffering Less From Your Cold.

—By DR. CLENDENING

EVERYBODY has a favorite remedy for his common cold. I am in receipt of a good many of these family secrets. My impression is that they do good more or less in proportion to the amount of faith that is placed in the remedy before it is taken.

In preparing these articles on the cold I visited a medical library and read the articles that have been published on the common cold during the last year. I was surprised to find an article in a journal on psychoanalysis which had to do with the psychic factors in the cause of the common cold. The author found in his experience, and that of other psychoanalysts, that patients who had been psychoanalyzed found that they were largely relieved of their colds after the process.

I do not know that I entirely subscribe to this view, but I think that the mental attitude towards the common cold is very important. If you say, "Oh! my! I have another cold. Isn't it awful?" it is likely to be awful. If you say, "Well, here's a kind of a pleasant feeling of lassitude and sleepiness, a nice opportunity to go to bed for a couple of days and read some of the books that I have been meaning to catch up on," you find that a cold is quite a friend.

You don't have to go to the office, or answer phone calls, or go out to dinner or lodge meeting, or lectures on the state of Europe and China. You are generally in a state of heaven. Which, in my opinion, argues for the value of the psychic treatment of the common cold.

To come down to physical methods of treatment, when a cold is in the bronchial tubes, undoubtedly the use of vapor inhalations is very comforting. It is important that a proper technique be carried out. If, as is usually advised, you put some camphor or compound tincture of benzoin or other aromatic on steaming water in an open pan and put your head under a towel over the steaming basin, you usually excoriate the skin, usually around the nose and mouth.

A better way is to have a metal pitcher with steaming hot water in it, throw the compound tincture of benzoin on top of this, cover the top of the pitcher with a towel, but stick in a large, stiff rubber tube. You can then put the end of the tube in your mouth and inhale the fumes without having them injure your skin or irritate your nostrils.

The technique of the mustard foot bath is also important. The water in which the mustard is placed should not be too hot. The mustard volatilizes best in cool or lukewarm water. A teaspoon of domestic mustard, tied in a little muslin bag, may be allowed to soak in a quart of cool water; when ready add a gallon of water at 110° or 120°. Hot lemonade with this aspirin and a night in bed will help a lot by morning.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—You can rest easy about any new taxes this year. Definitely there won't be any. And that goes too for any boost in the $45,000,000,000 national debt limit so wistfully "suggested" by Secretary Morgenthau.

Democratic and Republican leaders have had a private meeting of minds on both propositions and agreed among themselves to do nothing about either. With a hot national election in the offing, the boys have no stomach for soaking the taxpayer either directly or indirectly and they intend to play it safe by doing nothing.

Their plan is to prune appropriations sufficiently to keep just within the $45,000,000,000 debt limit and then call it a day. What happens next year they are going to leave for the new congress and administration to worry about. They are out to save their own scalps in 1940.

Senator Mickey.

DURING his recent visit to the nation's capital in honor of the president's birthday, youthful screen star Mickey Rooney took a side trip to Baltimore, traveling under police escort. With him went Miss Bertha Joseph, vivacious secretary of Senator George Radcliffe of Maryland.

In the course of their conversation Miss Joseph remarked: "Mickey, why don't you run for the senate?" Mickey said nothing, appeared to be thinking the matter over.

Finally he said: "Uh-huh, maybe you got something there. I have been thinking about that carefully and maybe I will. But first I had better get a secretary, hadn't I? How about you?"

And Miss Joseph, comparing the 19-year-old boy to her 62-year-old mentor, said she was interested.

"Mr. Browder Goes to Washington."

FEW people outside New York City realize that Earl Browder is not in jail, but is actually running for congress. Voters of New York's 16th district will choose tomorrow among three candidates to send to Washington—Michael Edelstein, Louis Lefkowitz, and Earl Browder.

The contest is over the seat made vacant by the death of Congressman Sirovich.

Browder is under sentence of four years and $2,000 for passport forgery, but he is out on bail pending appeal. Meantime, he is making it clear that he would much prefer a seat in the house to a cell in prison.

Chances are that Democrat Edelstein will win over both Republican Lefkowitz and Communist Browder, but if Browder should be elected, he would have still another hurdle to jump—the consent of the house of representatives itself to let him sit. It is doubtful if members would seat a Communist if they had the valid excuse that he was under criminal sentence.

But New York Communists are pushing him nevertheless, using as their rallying cry, "Mr. Browder Goes to Washington."

No Luck.

GEN. JULIUS F. HOWELL, 94-year-old commander of the United Confederate Veterans, tried his hand at drawing the president out on the third-term issue, but with no better luck than the rest.

Accompanied by Representative John W. Flannagan of Virginia, the Dixie hero visited the president at the White House. After telling Roosevelt he had voted for him twice, Howell added, "And nothing would make me happier than to make it three in a row this year."

The president laughed jovially and commended the general on his party loyalty. But he said nothing about running again. Howell tried another tack.

"You've got to run again, Mr. President," he insisted. "No other Democrat but you can win. The people won't take No for an answer."

But Roosevelt wasn't talking. He beamed but ducked the question by deftly changing the subject.

"You know, General," he said, "Joe Robinson (late senate floor leader) used to tell me a lot about you. I believe he was a student of yours at the University of Arkansas. Sometime I would like to sit down and have a long chat with you about the South. I have family connections in the South. Teddy Roosevelt's mother was a descendant of a Georgia patriot."

Note—T. R.'s mother, Martha Bulloch, was a granddaughter of Archibald Bulloch, first president of the provincial congress of Georgia and a pioneer in the struggle to free the colonies from British rule.

Agricultural Hangover.

HENRY WALLACE was reading a statement in his press conference warning the country against expecting the war to be a boon to agriculture. He paused, looked at his audience of newsmen, and threw in a figure of speech which he said "would be understood by many reporters, but not by many farmers.

"In this war, agriculture is likely to have a hangover without a spree beforehand."

Merry-Go-Round.

BOTH the AFL and CIO have privately warned Dr. John Steelman, head of the U. S. Labor Conciliation Service, that they will determinedly fight the arbitration bill he is reported to be working on—IF it has any compulsory features in it. . . . One of the first orders issued by Attorney General Bob Jackson was that the FBI stop using private industrial detectives to uncover sabotage. Jackson believes that government agents only should be used on government work. . . . The two rival house floor leaders, Democratic Sam Rayburn and Republican Joe Martin, are so popular personally with their colleagues that when they rise to make one of their infrequent speeches Democrats and Republicans join in giving them a big hand. . . . Rated by Democratic leaders as one of the most effective party activities in the middle west is the Altgeld Forum in Chicago, named after Illinois' famed reform governor of the early '90's. Prominent in it is Gael Sullivan, handsome young assistant to Mayor Edward Kelly, whom politicos have marked down as a comer in the public arena.

Field Mice

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE HIGH WIND of several weeks ago scattered bundles of corn fodder across the wheat field. I gathered up most of them, lest they smother out the wheat, and put them back into the rows left undrilled, where the shocks had been. A few days ago I came upon one bundle that I had overlooked. The snow had sealed it over like a mound, and when I placed my foot upon it, it rattled slightly beneath the white covering.

All about, the field was strangely quiet. There was no life that I could see. The soft airy blanket of white had settled upon the landscape overnight; now it was nearly noon, and my shadow was small behind me. A crow flew over and I watched his moving shadow on the snow follow up the swale and vanish east of the house.

I scraped away the snow which was four inches deep and hunted for the band of twine. I pulled it, but it had been cut. Disappointed I reached down into the snowy mass and gathered the fodder into my arms. As I raised it three separate nests of field mice came to light.

One had four half grown young. The mother stood up straight on the nest and looked at me with dark beady anxious eyes. Her large cupped ears were set forward in my direction. Only when her youngsters had scurried away and vanished into the snow did she run for her life and hide behind a grassy bunch of stubble.

A second mother mouse remained concealed within its cozy home and watched me nervously from between severed stalks of grass. I placed my fingers on the injured house, which had cost her many a weary nibble; then mousie moved reluctantly, and upon the hard bare ground beside my feet I saw her go, with five naked babies clinging beneath her desperately. The little ones were no bigger than wee thimbles.

The third nest was larger, and when I turned it over, I found it uninhabited, but it smelled most intimately of mice.

Slowly and carefully I laid the bundle down again and through my mind flitted those lines of Burns':

> "The best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft agley
> And lea'e us naught but grief and pain for promised joy."

CHAPTER XVII

Claire helped Lili with the dishes, while Frau Weber returned to the shop downstairs. While they were waiting for her to come back, Lili got out a photograph album and with considerable pride showed her pictures of her childhood.

"Those were happy days, then," she said, "although mother and father always were talking about the hard times that followed the war. At least we were together, and had good times together. Picnics in the park, excursions into the country."

"Your father—is he . . ." Claire stopped in sudden embarrassment.

"He is dead," Lili said, dully.

"Oh, I'm so sorry. I shouldn't have mentioned it—it was stupid of me."

"That's quite all right. Mother and I, somehow, have become used to it now. It seems so long ago." She turned over several pages of the album. "See, here he is in his uniform. That was taken after the World war. He went all through that and suffered only one wound. Shrapnel in his left arm, and it had to be amputated. That's why we happened to open up the little shop downstairs and buy this flat. Father was unfit for anything but light work after his injury. It handicapped him more than most men because he had been so active."

She chattered on, turning the pages sometimes rapidly, sometimes slowly as she stopped to recall some happy experience a snapshot suggested. Lili seemed glad of a chance to talk to some one, and Claire had a feeling that she had been bottled up for years, with few friends and daring to confide in virtually no one.

Claire glanced at her watch when she heard two short signals on the buzzer, and was surprised to find that it was nearly 10:30. Frau Weber seemed worn and tired when she came in, and immediately ordered the girls to bed.

"Lili, you will be a wreck tomorrow," she scolded and added apologetically to Claire. "You see, she has to get up so early and the work at the factory is so hard."

"It's been so good, Mother, to have some one to talk to—some outsider to whom I'm not afraid to talk for fear that my words will be twisted and carried to the police."

"Go to bed now, dear," her mother directed. "I'll be in soon. Oh, yes, you'd better get out a nightdress for Fraulein Clara. She came without baggage, you know."

Claire protested, but Frau Weber insisted on giving up her room to her for the night.

"I'll show you why," she explained. "It's the only safe place in the flat. Come with me."

She led the way into the room, went over to the large clothes chest and swung open the door. Inside she reached up and pushed up on the third hook from the left on which clothes were hung. There was a slight click and then Frau Weber pushed gently to the left. The back panel of the big chest slid quietly aside, presumably running on a track back to the other side of the massive piece of furniture.

Through the gap, Claire could see the wall of the room, papered exactly as all the rest, with a design of large cabbage roses. Frau Weber reached up and touched one that was exactly back of where the hook had been in the high chest, and the wall suddenly disappeared as though by magic.

"Follow me," the woman said, and Claire stepped into the wardrobe and into a small room opened up by the disappearance of the wall. Frau Weber flashed on a light and Claire glanced about her in amazement. There was a narrow cot in the room with sheets, a pillow and several blankets. There was a chair, a small stand with several books and magazines, and at the far end a miniature washbowl with a water tap.

"Why it's a regular little room!" Claire exclaimed. "A person could live here for some time and no one would ever know he was in the place—that is if there's some way to get air."

"There is," Frau Weber answered. "There are air vents cut in the wall back of the moulding in my bedroom, which let in plenty of air. People have lived here—for weeks at a time."

Claire nodded as she saw a small supply of canned goods on a shelf over the wash basin.

"Not hotel service," Frau Weber commented, drily, "but it is better than nothing." She snapped out the light and led the way back through the open wall, and carefully closed it. Then she pulled gently on the edge of the sliding panel of the wardrobe back and it slid into place without a sound.

"This is why I want you in this room—where you can quickly disappear if it should become necessary," she said. "If you're in the flat alone and hear the buzzer sound, you'd better get in the closet as fast as possible. You can slide the panel of the chest back into place once you're through the wall, and then the wall slides easily back into place. It fits so snugly that I defy any one to discover it from this side."

"How will I know if the coast is clear?" Claire asked.

"You can hear anything that goes on in the flat through the air vents. If Lili or I are around, we'll give you the all clear signal. Otherwise, you'll have to listen very carefully and be absolutely certain there's no one here when you come out. There are half a dozen keys, like the one that was given to you in Paris. This flat is used for various purposes. We've had some pretty close escapes several times."

"Does George Roland have a key?"

"Yes, and he's your enemy."

"Yours, too, Frau Weber?"

"Maybe, but to us he is useful in many ways. Besides, I can't refuse anything he should demand of me. I may tell you why, sometime."

Before she left her, Frau Weber made Claire open and shut the panel and the wall a dozen times until she was almost as expert as the woman herself, and when she finally bade her good night, she left the way open into the small room.

"If some one should come during the night, I'll hear the buzzer," she said. "I sleep very lightly. I'll awaken you and you can disappear into the little room. You'd better put all your clothing on a chair by the bed where you can grab it in a hurry. Then, I'll climb into this bed and if any one comes in, they'll find everything in order—I in my own room and Lili asleep in hers."

After her long day and the little sleep of the night before, Claire lost little time preparing for bed and slipping into the nightgown Lili had lent her. It was of rough goods, not much like the silken garments to which she was accustomed. She was asleep almost as soon as her head found the pillow, and she was still tired when Frau Weber awakened her the following morning.

Her watch said eight o'clock and she could hardly believe she had slept so long, but she felt refreshed when she had had a bath and was sitting down to the simple breakfast Frau Weber prepared for her.

"Lili has been gone for hours," the woman said. "She starts pretty early, you know, and she always gives herself plenty of time. There is much trouble made if you are late by so much as one minute."

Claire was glad she had thought to stuff an extra pair of stockings in her pocket before she left Paris, and when Frau Weber had left, after doing the dishes and cleaning up the flat, she washed out the hose she had worn the previous day. She decided it was the point of wisdom to hang them in the little room so that if any one should come in, the finding of a pair of American silk stockings would not arouse suspicion. Neither Frau Weber nor her daughter owned a pair, they had to be content with stockings made out of an artificial material, the base of which was wood fiber.

At noon, Claire made a sudden dive for her place of refuge, taking care to slide the panel back into place and the wall, too, when she was inside, after she had heard the buzzer sound. The visitor turned out to be Frau Weber, and she called to the girl when she entered the flat.

When Claire came out of the secret room, the woman handed her a small roll of thin paper. Claire hastily spread it out. It was from Bill Cameron! She recognized his writing, although it was just a scrawl, and her heart leaped.

"Claire," it read. "I'm safe so don't worry. Why did you come here and put yourself in such danger? Hope to see you soon. Bill."

She had no more digested the note, when the buzzer sounded faintly in the apartment.

"Go! Go, quickly!" Frau Weber whispered, and Claire dashed into the open wardrobe, into the room, slid back the two panels and stood by the wall, breathing heavily with excitement and fear.

She heard voices a short time later. Frau Weber's she recognized, and then a man's voice. His suddenly boomed out almost as though it were coming from the loud speaker of a radio. There was a note of elation in it as she heard:

"I bring good news, Frau Weber. The American, Cameron, is to be purged tonight!"

Claire recognized the voice as that of George Roland!

Teacher Claims Courses Are All Backwards.

WACO, Tex.—(AP)—Dr. Iva Cox Gardner of the Baylor University psychology department thinks public schools teach English courses "backward."

Students are taught the language by writing but she says the greatest use to which they put it is in speech.

"The same accusation applies to the oral teaching of spelling," she adds. "Although the only time one has occasion to spell is in writing, most spelling lessons are given orally."

This Man Has Good Reason To Thank "Vendol" Medicine

Mansfield resident tells how it eased his stomach of gas, sourness, cramps, acid risings, and other troubles due to being constipated. Now feels great.

MR. PAUL HENN

The favorite medicine Vendol is bringing relief and comfort to men and women all over this city and nearby vicinity. Vendol will not relieve "everything under the sun," but it is helping many who suffer from those symptoms brought on by constipation or need of a diuretic action on the kidneys, and hardly a day goes by but what some good, reliable citizen tells the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & 4th Sts., how it has helped him.

Mr. Paul Henn, of 21 Tracy Street, Mansfield, read about Vendol and had some friends who had taken it with good results, so decided to try it, and now has good reasons to thank Vendol too.

"I was constipated most all the time, and this kept me feeling dull and sluggish. I suffered a lot from a sour, acid stomach and at times, the gas was so bad felt like I couldn't draw a full breath. For hours after meals I'd feel full and bloated and I guess this was acid indigestion.

"Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets gave the most satisfying and complete relief from constipation, and while I took them kept me moving every day, and with this relief also came relief from the other troubles associated with it, and now I just feel fine and wouldn't take anything for having given Vendol a chance to help me. It is splendid medicine and I'm glad to recommend it."

If constipation is causing you distress such as gas in the stomach, cramps, burning sensation, sourness, acid risings, lump in your throat, or makes you feel nervous and jumpy, why not give Vendol a chance to help you? Give it a trial and see for yourself how it acts.

Most all leading druggists sell Vendol, and I invite you to come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & 4th Sts.; ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I will explain all about my medicine, and how it can help you just as it has many well known people right here in town.

Sooner you repay your loan the less it costs

Informally Speaking...

February 5, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

YOU'RE MISSING out on all the fun by not coming over to our town for a visit these week-ends. . . There was another sorority formal at the Mansfield-Leland Saturday night—Alpha Pi Sigma sponsored it, and there certainly were lots of gorgeously gowned gals in attendance. . . . One of the loveliest dresses was of blue and silver brocade, which Sanchen Cutter was wearing—and the most interesting thing about it was that it was a LeLong original her grandmother had given 'er.

Marianne

* * * * *

Although there was quite a bit of snow on the ground this morning, it was really quite warm outdoors—but a group of Mansfield women are leaving this week for still warmer climes . . . Mrs. George W. Stephens, Mrs. William W. Tawse, Mrs. Maxwell E. Geipel, Mrs. Louis A. Ott, Mrs. C. V. McConnell and Mrs. Herman T. Siegenthaler are driving out to California in Mrs. Stephens' new car. . . . They're planning to take the southern route out and the northern route back. . . . They'll vacation in Los Angeles and the southern part of the state—and intend to start back in time to attend the Garden Jubilee at Natchez, Miss. the first week in March.

* * * * *

Some other folks, who are taking a winter vacation just now, have gone to another of the sunshine states—Florida. . . . Mrs. John H. Finefrock is driving down with her daughters, Virginia and Carolyn. . . . I'm sure you remember them both, Lucy, because they lived here about the same time you did—but Virginia is affiliated with the Y. W. C. A. in Akron now, while Carolyn is employed by the Halle Brothers company in Cleveland. . . . During their stay in Florida, the threesome will spend some time with their son and brother, Don, who is stationed at Venice—winter quarters for the students of the Kentucky Military institute.

* * * * *

I KNOW you'll be sorry to hear that Mr. and Mrs. James Carse have moved to Milwaukee, Wis. . . . Mr. Carse went to the northern city early last month—having been transferred there as assistant general manager of Nesco. . . . He came back this week-end, however, to drive his family up for permanent residence—And that's no small family, Lucy, because not only does it include Mrs. Carse and the three children, Eleanor Louise, David and Jimmy—but a pup . . . a cat . . . and a litter of kittens!

* * * * *

Barbara Chatlain spent the week-end in Springfield and had the thrill of seeing her brother, Ed, play a winning game with the Wittenberg basketball team against Case. . . . Dorothy Bergman went down with Barbara, and after the game they enjoyed a costume dance at Ed's fraternity house, Phi Gamma Delta.

* * * * *

Since you haven't managed to get over for any of the dances yet this year, Lucy, I'm going to tell you about the one Phalanx fraternity is sponsoring now, so that you'll have plenty of time to arrange to come over—Members of Alpha Beta chapter of the fraternity are planning to have a mid-winter semi-formal at the Grotto hall on March 1. . . . Nels Blocker and his orchestra will furnish the music for the dance, which is being arranged by John Culler, Gert Jesson and Wayne Foster.

* * * * *

WELL, that seems to be just about all the news for today, Lucy. . . . Do write soon now, and then I'll do the same for you—next week.

Lovingly,

Marianne

Miss Sherman Has Birthday Party

Yesterday afternoon Miss Josephine Sherman celebrated her birthday when she entertained members of the Klippity Klap club at her home, 17 Purdy street. The hostess was showered with gifts by the club members, and the afternoon diversion was cards.

Winners were the Misses Edith Winbigler, and Donna Berry, a guest. A business meeting preceded the serving of supper at a long table decorated with a birthday cake. Miniature holders and tiny candles were used as individual favors, and the centerpiece was flanked on either side by roses in bowls shaped like wooden shoes.

Members of the club will meet again Feb. 25 with Miss Elizabeth Schadek, 371 First avenue.

HAS PARTY.

Shirley Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Long, was honored with a party on her fourth birthday Saturday at the family home, 1366 Springmill road. The 15 little guests in attendance played games during the afternoon, and prizes were won by Dorothy and Loren Kelly, Frances Davies, Donna Lou and Phyllis Joseph and Gladys Long. Refreshments were served, and Shirley received many gifts from the guests.

HUNTERS TOO EAGER

LAS PLUMAS, Cal.—(U.P.)—Authorities are looking for this section's two "meanest men." Under California laws, each Californian is allowed to shoot two bucks during the open deer season. The two men being sought shot two tame bucks—one a 6-pointer—on the local game reserve.

Postoffice Clerks, Auxiliary Conduct First Joint Meeting

THE first joint meeting of the Postoffice Clerks, Local 903 and the Women's auxiliary was held Saturday evening at the Prospect park pavilion. Dinner was served to the 47 persons in attendance at 6:30 o'clock.

During the evening's program, several pupils of Marguerite Speas' Dancing studio presented a group of numbers. Jacquelyn Pilot and Peggy Cole gave a soft shoe tap, while Arlene Lock did an acrobatic dance. A waltz tap was given by Dorothy Hartson and Joan Poth, and Dick Stafford did a fast tap. Mrs. Alice Dillon played the piano accompaniment for these dances.

Prizes for the evening were won by M. B. Pecht, Mrs. Robert Bride, jr., and Mr. Basset. Short talks were given by George Hoover, president of the men's local, Mrs. Henry Emmer, president of the women's auxiliary, and John Seifert, general chairman for the evening. Mrs. Emmer, Mrs. Paul Old, Mrs. Seifert and H. W. McCleary assisted Mr. Seifert with arrangements. The group spent the remainder of the evening playing card games.
